HULL STRETCH FERRY IDEA

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

B.C. is considering chopping its mainland to Vancouver Island ferries in half and adding a centre section to increase their length and capacity.

The idea came from Monty Aldous, general manager of the E.C. Ferry Authority, and for the moment he isn't keen on going into details.

But Premier Bennett let the cat out of the bag in an interview Tuesday. (See also Page 10.)

He said consideration is being given to lengthening the nine white Queen ferries on the island run, adding if this was done it would provide an equivalent of "two or three extra ships."

JUST AN IDEA
"At this stage it's only an idea," Mr. Bennett said. "It will take a lot of study by engineers and marine architects to see if it can be done and how much it will cost."

Mr. Aldous said preliminary studies have been done and he is awaiting permission to launch a thorough study of cost and engineering.

MORE CARS
Based on the meagre information available at this stage, it's likely the ships — now 335 or 342 feet long depending on time of construction — would be increased by approximately 45 to 50 feet to boost their carrying capacity close to 200.

RAMPS WORK
Mr. Bennett also announced the successful trial of two ships fitted with "tween-deck" ramps will mean similar changes for the remaining seven ships on the island run before the summer of 1968.

The ramps, installed at a cost of $150,000 per ship, increased their capacity from 115 to 147 cars. They were tried after coast of building new ships from the heavily travelled service soared.

COST RISKS
The Queen of Burnaby, built in 1964, cost nearly $3,900,000, and a similar ship last November brought in a low bid of $5,100,000.

Mr. Bennett said the ramps will be installed in the seven ferries as they enter winter refit.

Shipbuilding experts indicated lengthening of the queens would likely change their operating characteristics. It should cut down the present operating speed and may make the handling of the ships in docking more difficult.

DONE BEFORE
"Certainly lengthening of ships in this manner is done all the time," an official said, "but whether it's the best method of increasing ferry capacity remains to be seen."

Mr. Bennett announced a few days ago that ferry traffic in the first 10 days of July was more than 19 per cent up from the same period last year.

Tycoons' Bottle Floats Far

Old Folks at Home If Irish Luck Holds

DUBLIN (AP) — Six months ago, a party of millionaires vacationing on a yacht in the Bahamas threw a bottle overboard and vowed they would build an old folks home wherever the bottle touched land.

The luck of the Irish carried the bottle across the Atlantic and landed it at Bantry in County Cork, where 68-year-old John McCarthy picked it up.

McCarthy wrote to Henry Garber of Dublin, one of the millionaires, whose name was inside the bottle.

"We felt that not enough was being done for them," Garber said.

So the 20 rich men agreed to pool £20,000 to build a home wherever their bottle washed ashore.

Garber said he has written the others and is waiting for them to make good on their pledges.

Brazilian Midair Crash

'Iron Hand' Killed

Castello Branco

PORTALEZA, Brazil (AP) — A Brazilian air force jet collided with a light private plane near this northeast Brazilian city Tuesday, killing former president Humberto Castello Branco and four others.

The army marshal who ruled Brazil with an iron hand for nearly three years, was in the private plane with five others. The co-pilot survived and the jet, a T-33 trainer, managed to return to the Fortaleza air base safely.

The collision occurred over a village near here as 66-year-old Castello Branco was flying back from a visit to the farm of novelist Raquel de Queiroz, about 120 miles from Fortaleza.

The trainer, on a routine flight, clipped the tail of the smaller Cessna with a wingtip.

The only Cessna survivor was co-pilot Emilio Cecco Tinoco. His father, Cecco, the pilot, died in hospital. Killed besides the former president were his brother, Candido Castello Branco, Maj. Francisco Nepomuceno and writer Alba Freitas, the only woman aboard.

The government decreed five days of mourning.

Castello Branco was army chief when he helped lead an uprising of civilians and soldiers dissatisfied with the leftist policies of President Joao Goulart in April, 1964. Goulart fled to Uruguay and Congress named Castello Branco interim president.

By decree, Castello Branco decided Congress and not the people would elect his successor. Congress chose his war minister, Arthur da Costa e Silva, and he took over March 15 last.

U.K. Defence Plan

Far East Force Home by 70s

LONDON (CP) — A new streamlined shape for the fighting forces of a Britain looking toward union with Europe was outlined Tuesday by Defence Secretary Denis Healey.

The plan envisages British withdrawal in the mid-1970s from Singapore and Malaysian bases although forces will be maintained and possibly even increased in the Communist-barraged colony of Hong Kong.

The cuts, more drastic than had been anticipated, would reduce armed service manpower by 75,000 and civilian manpower by 80,000 by the mid-1970s. Present strength of the army, navy and air force is 417,360. Civilian strength is 376,000.

Healey's white paper marked the end of a global defence review undertaken by Prime Minister Wilson's Labour government when it came to power in October, 1964.

SHARP DEBATE
Debate was sharp during the ensuing period of chronic economic difficulty not only between Labour and the Conservative opposition but within the Labour party itself.

The term "East of Suez" — resurrected by Wilson from Rudyard Kipling — became an evocative and nostalgic synonym for Britain's traditional world role.

"East of Suez — goodbye to all that" is the headline in one London newspaper, summing up the defence findings.

The new plan is designed to keep defence costs down to the target of £2,000,000,000 ($8,000,000,000) a year from now on. The budget for 1970-71 is expected to be about £1,900,000,000 and by the mid-1970s about £1,800,000,000, "a reduction of some £300,000,000 on last year's forecast."

The white paper said the contribution to NATO would become increasingly important as Britain develops closer political and economic ties with Europe.

MARKET BID NOTED
The new policy took account of Britain's current attempt to join the European Common Market as well as changing NATO strategy, the Middle East crisis and changes in Southeast Asia following the end of Indonesia's confrontation policy against Malaysia.

The United States, engaged in its long war in Vietnam, would regret Britain's plans for departure from Southeast Asia, some sources said. But Healey, questioned on this point by a reporter, said it was unlikely the Vietnam fighting would still be going on in the mid-1970s. Anyway, a weak Britain — over-extended in defence — would not be in the interests of the U.S.

The U.S. has tended to take for granted Britain's contributions in the area, Healey added. Of the timing of withdrawal.

Riot Guns Delivered

WASHINGTON (LAT) — Most of the weapons confiscated from New Jersey race rioters were bought from mail order gun houses, U.S. Senate investigator Eugene Gleason said Tuesday. (See also Page 27.)

"In practically every riot, we've found mail order guns," he said. "Dealers aren't going to sell a .38 to a kid, so the kid turns to the mail order houses."

Admiral Sees How It's Done

Despite story above, Premier Bennett is not showing distinguished visitor where B.C. ferry will be saved in half to increase car capacity. Model of ferry he launched was simply topic of general discussion with Rear Admiral Seizaburo Hoshino, commander of Japanese training squadron here for naval assembly. — (Jim Ryan)

Blackened Slopes Blaze Aftermath

By GEORGE INGLIS

A few charred embers and wisp wisps of smoke were visible late Tuesday from the Trans-Canada Highway nine miles north of Victoria, in the aftermath of the Skirt Mountain forest fire which killed two men and scorched 400 acres.

By late afternoon, B.C. forestry officials reported the fire, which also threatened dwellings and businesses, was "pretty well contained."

To the motorists on the highway, smouldering embers lined the east side of the highway near the Old Island Highway junction, and a fairly substantial pall of smoke wafted gently up a draw leading northeast off the highway.

The curious spectators were gone, however, and it was "business as usual" on the island's main traffic route.

GUARD FINISHED
The 15 bulldozers and ground firefighters had by evening completed four miles of fire guard, encircling the main blaze. The 160-man crew was back on shift work but bulldozer operators continued from dawn to dusk.

For the next two days, burning-off operations will occupy the crews, as the area between the guard and the main fire is ignited to widen the fireguard and thoroughly contain the fire.

ONE COPIER
Air operations Tuesday were confined to one helicopter, which is acting as the eyes for the firefighters and the six tank trucks. The aerial water bombers were back "in the barn," waiting for the next alarm.

The two Martin Mars bombers from Flying Tankers Inc. returned to Sproat Lake Monday and the Flying Firemen's Canoe, sister ship to the ill-starred craft in which the two Sidney men died Sunday, was on standby.

DANGER OVER
Residents of the Florence Lake area, under notice to prepare to evacuate late Sunday, were relaxing with the danger to the area definitely over.

Businesses on the highway, especially a service station near the junction of Goldstream and the highway, breathed easier. The service station had been threatened Sunday and Monday as shifting winds caused concern.

The fire was reported at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Johnson Beats Dayan

TEL AVIV (UPI) — A public opinion poll that asked 1,000 Israelis who they admired most among men anywhere in the world came up with a surprising winner: U.S. President Johnson.

He was well ahead of war-winning Israeli Defence Minister Gen. Moshe Dayan and army chief Gen. Yitzhak Rabin.

Sewage Law To Stiffen

A provincial government report released Tuesday recommended immediate action by Fraser Valley municipalities and industries to halt increasing pollution of the Fraser River.

The report, prepared for the Pollution Control Board, called for immediate planning of new sewage treatment facilities. It urged municipalities to pulverize and chlorinate all raw sewage before it is dumped into the river.

If this is not done, the report said, existing permits that allow dumping of raw sewage should not be renewed.

C. A. Goldie, the water resources engineer who prepared the report, said the Fraser River's capacity is not sufficient to accept crude wastes from future domestic and industrial expansion without becoming impaired by pollution.

"Bacterial contamination of the lower Fraser is undesirable high at this time and continues to increase in some areas," the report said.

A public hearing on the report will be held Aug. 21 to 24. At present about 20 municipal permits have been issued by the provincial government for discharge of sewage into the Fraser.

Virtually all the permits are for untreated sewage.

Air Pollution Muscle Wins U.S. Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Senate unanimously approved Tuesday a three-year, $700,000,000 air pollution bill that would empower the government to bring industry to a standstill anywhere in the U.S. any time foul air threatens public health.

The 88-0 vote sent the measure to the House. No House hearings have been set. Aside from its emergency provisions, the bill would attack pollution that affects an estimated 7,000 urban communities. The worst pollution is over the eastern seaboard and southern California.

The measure would empower the secretary of health, education and welfare to seek court injunctions halting motor vehicle traffic, closing factories and power plants, and stopping operation of any other pollution source deemed an imminent danger to the public health.

Food, Atmosphere Potlatch Features

THE REAL THING: Latest addition to the interesting places to dine in the city is Bud French's Italian Potlatch on Chatham.

The long, cedar-lined building is getting the authentic touch from Indian artist Tony Hunt. In fact, the entire venture is getting the Hunt touch.

Helen Hunt, Tony's mother, obliged Mr. French by trying out the open grill where salmon is barbecued over cedar and alder wood. Mrs. Hunt looked the situation over and is well on her way to becoming a fixture as chief cook.

The salmon and chowder prepared by Mr. Hunt must have a lot going for it, because she has raised 14 children on her cooking. A vast mural to cover the side of the building has been designed by Vancouver artist Mort Graham. It is an 80-foot-long and 25-foot-high Thunderbird.

Henry Hunt and Mr. French are still in conference about the coloring of the massive bird figure.

Well, they can handle over the paintwork, but the food speaks for itself. This place could well become a local institution. It has the atmosphere, the location and the food.

PROFIT DEAL: The Better Business Bureau should look into this one. The so-called beer bargain in the pubs this week is not being matched by the Liquor Control Board stores.

As we all know, the price of a case of beer went up five cents this week. The same nickel raise went onto the half-dozen, but here's the rub: the LCB sells beer by the single bottle and has hiked the price of a single bottle by five cents.

The impoverished citizen could go in and get just a single bottle, but the LCB has hit the single-bottle buyer with a 25-per-cent price increase.

A clerk at the store where the customer is always wrong explained it was no much easier that way than bothering with pennies.

SICK LIES: Photographer Bill Boucher is in St. George's Hospital and may be off to St. Joseph's later for surgery. He would like to see a few friendly faces just for morale's sake.

Bill Boucher must be one of the best liked picture makers for it was rival photographer William E. John who suggested this item. Get well soon, Bill!

SMALL CROWD: The free show presented Monday by Lance Harrison and his jazz band drew only a small crowd to the McPherson Playhouse.

The CBC-sponsored event, hardly filled the ground floor area. It was a good program though the jazz was not quite the real thing.

Singer Jim Johnson gave the proceedings a lift and it would have been enjoyable to have heard more from him.

BIT OF A DRIP: Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club officials complained to the B.C. Forest Service that the Mars water bombers were dripping salt onto the greens.

The upset golfers got a firm but polite answer that the planes have to make their approaches to the big fire along a definite path, and it was just bad luck. The water hitting the hallowed grass is negligible, say the foresters.

It's an odd aspect of human nature that anyone should complain about the path firemen follow by the aerial firefighters when two died on this operation. Is the grass that valuable?

Russia Hints Return To Security Council

From UPI, AP

In a move that hinted at a return to the UN Security Council, Russia accused Israel Tuesday on new acts of war against Egypt and other Arab countries.

As the Russians did so, Israel charged the first violation of the UN ceasefire since Saturday — a single Egyptian mortar shell lobbed across the Suez Canal. There were no casualties.

In Jerusalem, Israel warned it will fight if necessary to defend its boats in the canal against Egyptian attack. Egypt advised the UN it will fire on any such ship.

COULD DEVELOP

Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko sent a letter to the Security Council charging Israel with creating an extremely dangerous situation in the canal area "that could develop into a wider military conflict."

He said: "In order to prevent further military clashes and to eliminate the danger of renewed war in the Middle East, Israel must immediately withdraw its forces from the territories of the Arab states occupied by Israel." These areas are in Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

KIND OF BRIDGE

Gromyko did not ask Ethiopian Ambassador Endalkachew Makonnen, the July council president, to call a session to consider the charges. But most diplomats viewed the letter as a kind of bridge from the General Assembly back to the council for the Russians.

The Soviet Union asked the assembly to meet in urgent session more than a month ago. Premier Alexei N. Kosygin demanded from the rostrum that the assembly condemn Israel as an aggressor and demand its withdrawal from Arab territory won in the June 5-10 war.

CHANCE FADING

But the Soviet Union has been frustrated in its efforts to get any kind of a resolution through the assembly that would satisfy its Arab allies, and likelihood of any agreement on a withdrawal resolution before the assembly reconvenes Thursday after a three-day recess.

In the letter to Makonnen, the Soviet foreign minister charged the Israelis with bombing Egyptian towns and inhabitants in the Suez Canal area. He said that was proof that Israel intended to continue the war against Egypt and the other Arab states.

VIOLATION CLAIMED

He said continued occupation by Israel of Arab territory "is a violation of the fundamental principles of the UN charter and of international law, an infringement of the sovereignty and territorial integrity of the Arab states."

UN spokesmen said Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, the Norwegian head of the UN Palestine Truce Supervisory Organization, had 14 complaints about the path firemen follow by the aerial firefighters when two died on this operation. Is the grass that valuable?

NOT ASSEMBLY

An observer staff of 33 men is planned, and Bull was still trying to recruit the additional observers he needed. Agreement to station the observers in the area was reached in the Security Council and not the assembly.

Presidents Boumediene of Algeria and Aref of Iraq left Moscow after a day of talks with Premier Kosygin and party leader Brezhnev. The talks were believed aimed at co-ordinating policy for the "second round" of the dispute with Israel.

MORE CONTROL

Aref and Boumediene reportedly asked for massive Soviet aid, especially weapons, but Moscow demanded more political control over Arab policy in exchange.

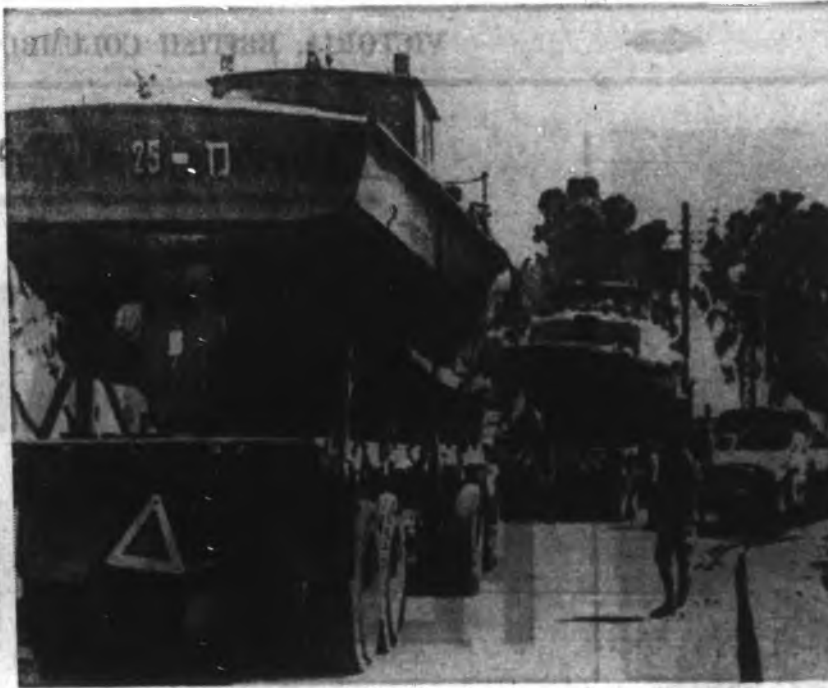

In Cairo, President Nasser wound up a week of separate talks with the leaders of all Arab nations.

Thousands of young Egyptians were pressed into service in Cairo during the day to join soldiers in digging air raid shelters — in the city's traffic islands, parks and shopping centres.

CROSSED BRIDGE

Elsewhere, nearly 200 Arabs crossed over the wrecked Allenby bridge to the Israeli-occupied west bank of the Jordan to become the first sizeable group of refugees to return home since last month's war.

The Israeli government informed Secretary-General Thant Tuesday of its willingness to allow the return of Arab refugees from Jordan provided they apply for repatriation by Aug. 10.

The Skirt Mountain fire was rated as one of the most troublesome, although nine Avenger aircraft, three helicopters and three patrol aircraft were patrolling the Kamloops fire district where officials were "having a pretty hectic time."

Serious Problems in U.S.

Railways Start Slowly After Congressional Edict

NEW YORK (AP)—American railway employees went back to work at congressional order Tuesday, but there were serious service problems on several main lines.

Victims still marched from Ohio to California as President Johnson appointed a conciliation board to mediate the wage dispute that resulted in the first coast-to-coast U.S. rail strike in 30 years.

SLOW START

About 15 per cent of the 76 big railways reported resistance in getting their schedules started after the two-day stoppage. Included were the New York Central, the Santa Fe and the Baltimore and Ohio.

The Central said it would go into court for an injunction to halt picketing in Cleveland.

Despite the return-to-work order, some coal mines in West Virginia began to close down for lack of rail transport, and super-herby personnel handled on a limited basis the movement of perishables throughout the West. The Union Pacific said it was caught with 921 open carloads of fruit and vegetables that were spoiling. A spokesman for the railways claimed losses were well into the millions of dollars.

Commuters had a better break. Nearly normal service was restored for the half-million train riders in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

Johnson appointed a five-man board, headed by Senator Wayne Morse (Dem. Ore.), to try to solve the year-long dispute between the railways and six shopcraft unions.

Serving with Morse will be Fred Kappel, retired president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.; Theodore Kheel, New York labor mediator, Levrett Saltzman, former Republican senator from Massachusetts and George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

The back-to-work legislation signed Monday by Johnson requires a government - devised settlement if unions and management don't reach agreement within 90 days. The strike may not be resumed during that period — a cooling-off interval which could be extended to 1969.

Hemorrhoids Often Irritated By Seedy Foods, Popcorn

By JOSEPH MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner: Year and half ago I had quite a bit of rectal bleeding. A specialist made tests and said I had internal as well as external hemorrhoids as well as diverticulosis. I was told to avoid seedy foods, nuts, popcorn, etc.

Since then I have had more bleeding, mostly when I was taking some weight control pills prescribed by a doctor. Would the pills have anything to do with the bleeding? Should I return to the specialist? — MRS. J. A.

I doubt that the weight control pills had much if any effect. You might, however, discontinue them and see whether the bleeding subsides.

You were told to avoid the seedy foods and so on to reduce irritation of the surfaces which have been bleeding. This does not necessarily mean that they will heal completely. Yes, by all means return to the specialist to see whether you are making acceptable progress, or whether further measures should be taken.

Dear Dr. Molner: To relieve a body itch, a friend said to take a bath with corn starch but I soap. I tried. It works like a charm. Please comment. — A.B.

It's an old — but still useful — method of relieving itching.

and many a youngster with a lot of poison ivy or eczema has found relief in the bathtub.

It relieves, it eases. It doesn't cure anything. For relief of temporary itching, it's fine. Don't expect it to be a cure for serious skin ailments, though.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 17 and my stomach has been hurting for several weeks. Is it possible to have an ulcer? My mother said I am too young to have an ulcer. I am also very nervous. — L.F.

It is possible to have an ulcer at 17. Ulcers have been found even in babies. But nerves also can make a stomach cramp. Instead of disputing over whether it is possible to have an ulcer, have a doctor examine you and find out. An X-ray of the stomach is essential to determine the presence of an

South Vietnam's Presidential Race

Military Slate Approved

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's provisional assembly, voting early Tuesday in a crisis atmosphere, approved entry of the military presidential slate headed by chief-of-state Nguyen Van Thieu.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky is Thieu's running mate.

Seven other slates, including those of the exiled Lt.-Gen. Duong Van Minh and "peace" candidate Au Truong Thanh, were turned down. That left 11 in the running for the election Sept. 3.

The assembly's election committee, which checked on the legality of all entries, had refused to recommend the Thieu-Ky slate for posting.

The committee surprised political analysts with an announcement Tuesday that it had voted 840-4 against certifying them. It apparently was miffed because the two obvious leaders did not appear before it to answer charges that their candidacies were illegal.

Vietnamese sources said a representative of the two leaders had shown up, but did not have specific authority to represent them.

After the committee action, South Vietnam's military junta ordered a police and troop alert in the Saigon area, as in customary when a political storm seems imminent, and summoned generals of the armed forces council to an urgent meeting.

Backers of Thieu and Ky hurriedly rounded up friendly assemblymen to be sure they attended the showdown assembly session.

After a 2½-hour debate that lasted past midnight Tuesday night, 56 of the 74 assemblymen on hand voted to approve the military entry. The military alert was called off shortly afterward.

Critics had accused Thieu and Ky of violating an election law provision that candidates in the armed forces or civil service must take leaves of absence two months before the election, which is intended to restore civilian rule.

Both men have taken leaves of their military jobs—Thieu as an army lieutenant-general and Ky as an air vice-marshal. But they said their positions as chief of state and premier were not under civil service.

The Thieu-Ky ticket was one of fear on which the committee made no approving recommendation to the assembly, saying the charges were too involved for it to decide.

'Tshombe Gave Names'

KINSHASA, The Congo (Reuters)—Moise Tshombe has given the Congo central government representative the names of several persons connected with his political activities, Radio Kinshasa said Tuesday.

The radio said the former Congolese premier disclosed the names when interrogated at length in Algiers by Col. Alexandre Singa, head of the Congolese police.

"It is evident all the bad weeds will be cut down," the radio commented. It said the names, which include those of several Congolese, are being studied by senior government officials here.

Singa was a member of a Congolese delegation which flew to Algiers this month to ask for Tshombe's extradition to face a death sentence for treason passed after he left The Congo.

Tshombe, who has lived in exile in Europe for some years, was kidnapped June 30 by men who hijacked his plane on a Mediterranean flight and took him to Algeria. The Algerian supreme court is to begin a hearing in Algiers today on The Congo's extradition request.

Driver Cut

Frederick Marsh, 20, of 195 Sims, received multiple facial lacerations when his car struck a parked vehicle on Oswego near Beekley at 12:20 a.m. Sunday.

Meanwhile there was no fresh news about the mercenaries who fled July 13 from Kisangani in the eastern Congo after an unsuccessful insurrection.

Official Congolese sources here have said the Eastern Congo uprising, which started July 5, was part of an over-all plan by mercenaries and Katangan supporters of Tshombe to return the former premier to power.

Reliable sources here suggested some of the mercenaries have taken refuge in neighboring Angola and Rwanda, and that there are not more than 80 or 100 of them in all. It is believed between 100 and 200 former Katangan gendarmes are with them.

Prison Probe Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States voiced concern Monday at the plight of Americans imprisoned in Vietnam and called on the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese to permit impartial inspection of prisoners.

A White House statement urged also the return of sick and wounded prisoners under terms of the Geneva convention covering prisoners of war.

The White House said more than 20 American soldiers and several civilians are believed to be held by the Viet Cong guerrilla organization, and that more than 160 American military men are known to be confined in North Vietnam.

Several hundred more are considered missing because the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese withhold names of prisoners and generally prohibit them from sending letters.

'No Changes In Policy On Bombing'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. bombing of North Vietnam continues and no change in that policy has been ordered, says the defence department.

Questioned about reports in London suggesting that the United States may be on the verge of suspending the bombing, a department spokesman said he was authorized to say the administration's policy is unchanged.

The officer said he could not address himself to the question of future military moves by the United States.

Twin British newspapers, the Guardian and London's Evening Standard, reported Monday the United States seems about to switch its air war policy against North Vietnam.

The Evening Standard said informed observers expect that "a new trend has already begun toward a slowing down of the conflict and a shift to a more defensive strategy over the next year."

Vandals Send False Alarms

Three vandals during the weekend raised false alarms on Saanich's inhalator hotlines at Elk and Beaver lakes.

A spokesman for the fire department, which checks out all the calls, said stricter methods will be used to catch the trouble-makers if the phony calls persist.

DESIGNED MONTHLY INCOME IN RETIREMENT

It is not always easily arranged, as dividends or interest on investments often fail to tie in well with the monthly style of budget to which the retired man accustomed himself during his working years.

Further, some of our retired clients are expending more than they receive, and along with their savings rather than have it all left to their credit.

To meet this need, Victoria Mortgage Corporation will send a monthly cheque covering an amount of $10.00 or over, for any AMOUNT you SPECIFY, to ARRIVE PROMPTLY ON THE FIRST OF EACH MONTH. This can be for interest only at 7½%, or for an amount including part principal, as well as interest.

Perhaps you will find the following table interesting:

$10,000 at 7½% produces $62.50 earnings per month. $10,000 at monthly payments of $20 including 7½% interest would take nearly 20 years to spend: $25 month—25 years; $30 month—20 years; $35 month—18 years; $40 month—15 years; $45 month—13 years; $50 month—11 years; $55 month—9 years; $60 month—8 years.

Terms of all 7½% Victoria Mortgage Corporation loans provide that the unpaid portion of your investment is repaid in five years—or earlier in the event of prior death, in which case your estate can cash the debenture.

A Needed Lesson

AT AN EARLY date in September the people of Gibraltar will be offered the opportunity to say in a referendum whether they believe their interests would best be served by passing under Spanish sovereignty or by voluntarily retaining their links with Britain.

Britain's decision to put the matter to a vote was made in the light of the resolution adopted by the United Nations' General Assembly in December, 1966, calling on the United Kingdom and Spain to continue negotiations about Gibraltar, taking into account the interests of the inhabitants, as well as asking the British government to expedite the decolonization of the territory.

In voting for this resolution at that time the United Kingdom representative called the General Assembly's attention to Article 73 of the UN Charter which expresses the principle that the interests of the inhabitants of a non-self-governing territory are paramount.

He also emphasized that the British government could never agree that decolonization could mean the incorporation of Gibraltar into Spain against the wishes of the people, as this would simply mean re-colonization.

Since that date Britain has proceeded with every good will—and a remarkable show of patience—to fulfil her commitment. She has publicly announced that should the Gibraltarians vote in favor of becoming part of Spain she will enter into immediate negotiations with the Spanish government to arrange the change-over.

She has also given her assurances that if the people of Gibraltar vote to retain their link with Britain the British government would not look upon the decision as irrevocable but would give the Gibraltarians full opportunity to change their minds at any time in the future and vote for joining Spain.

Further to this, the British government has stated that it would welcome Spanish consultation on the formulation of the first alternative (passing under Spain) in the referendum, that Spain may send an observer, and that the Spanish government will be given every opportunity to explain its own proposals to the people of Gibraltar.

Certainly it is doubtful if any other country in the world would be as generous under the same circumstances.

Yet, incredibly, the Spanish government's only response to this outstanding gesture of magnanimity has been to step up its verbal abuse of the British government and its physical harassment of the colony's administration.

It is to be hoped that the Gibraltarians will teach the Madrid yahoos and their boorish leader a good and much needed lesson when they go to the polls.

Paying the MP

IT IS NOT SURPRISING, says the June issue of IT European Community, that British MPs are inquiring closely into the provisions for free movement of labor and services should Britain join the Common Market. Their pay as MPs would be better in any other of the large European countries.

The Italians rank first, with $16,500 (and free admission to the movies); then the French, with $14,400, and the German Bundestag members, with $10,200. Then the British parliamentarians, with $9,750, and their secretaries to remunerate out of that sum.

Seven European countries pay their MPs still less, ranging from $9,600 in Sweden and Austria down to $3,300 in tiny Luxembourg.

What is surprising in these circumstances is that the members at Westminster are not, as far as one knows, inquiring closely into the possibilities of free movement of labor should Britain continue to be rejected by Gen. de Gaulle and turn instead to the idea of an economic and political community extending across the Atlantic.

If they could transfer their services to Washington, $30,000 per annum would await them there. But barring that, Ottawa wouldn't be at all bad.

They would get almost twice as much money as they now receive—$18,000 of which $6,000 is tax-free expense allowance. Nice private offices. Secretaries. Free rail and air transportation to and from their constituencies, free office mail, free long-distance calls.

Generous vacations, too: the Ottawa MPs, in this important year, have recessed from July 8 to September 25. No one keeps tabs on their absences when the House is in session. And now some members want more: a research assistant for each of them, separate offices for boss and staff.

"Ask the voter-in-the-street what his member of Parliament is worth and the answer may be impossible," IT European Community suggests. Just possibly Britain's parliamentarians shrink from thinking of the impoliteness were they to aspire publicly to the Canadian pay scale.

Easy to Forget

REPORTS FROM LONDON indicate that India's most controversial elder statesman, Krishna Menon, is readying himself for a return to active politics. As former minister of defence, one-time candidate for the prime ministership and the darling of his country's leftists, he still wields considerable power in the great sub-continent.

Arriving recently in the British capital following a visit to Cairo he has made few public appearances and restricted his observations on international affairs to criticizing American involvement in Vietnam and attacking the Israelis for overrunning Arab territory.

On the latter subject he seems to have conveniently forgotten that he was defence minister when India overran Goa in December, 1961, in a military action roundly condemned by the United Nations.

This armed attack on Goa by India was called aggressive and a resolution supported in the Security Council demanded that India withdraw its invading forces. Although the resolution passed 7-4 the U.S.S.R. vetoed it and India's parliament incorporated Goa, along with other former Portuguese territory, in the Indian Union.

Because of this it becomes Menon or any other Indian politician—active or retired—to moralize on the actions of Israel at this time.

'Les Sauvages' of the New World

Ottawa Offbeat

INCREDIBLY, they're just about holding their own, around this festive national centennial capital, in what has to be known as the Battle of the Bulge.

It's a very special, once-in-a-century engagement of Very Important Persons being fought, with unbelievably tenacious strength of iron will, by Governor General Michener, Prime Minister Pearson, official Opposition leader Diefenbaker and their good ladies, and other leading couples in the federal establishment.

The battleground is the State dinner table, and spell, please, "State" with a capital "S." For State and state it is, gloriously resplendent with the finest of silver and china, glistening in a field of white linen, and bearing the most toothsome selection of the choicest vint and vintages from all across the broad lands and out of the ocean depths of the wide world.

This field of State dinnerable action variously may be at the swank Country Club on the Quebec side of the Ottawa River, the prime minister's old grey stone residence at No. 24 on ceremonial Sussex Drive, or historic old Rideau Hall. Huddled behind its high wrought iron fence on the edge of richest, richest Rockcliffe.

Upon these dinnerables—following, but of course, the inevitable reception—may be served luncheon or dinner. It matters not a calorie which it is—for if you do more than nibble delicately, you're dead in this Battle of the Bulge.

The War of the Waist opened last May 2, when the first of the centennial VIP guests, Sir See-woosagur and Lady Ramgoolam of Mauritius, arrived in the capital as the holiday prelude to their big bash at Expo, a treat, courtesy of you and the rest of the Canadian taxpayers, being given some 70 heads of state and heads of government.

What went on when the distinguished visitors were wined and dined at the Country Club.

Nothing that hasn't become par for the dining course.

Samuel Colt, the man whose invention won the west, was born at Hartford, Conn., 133 years ago today—in 1834.

The inventor of the Colt revolver first went to sea and later lectured in chemistry. In 1835 he obtained his first patent for a rotating breech six-barrelled revolver and founded the Paterson Arms Company.

In 1852 he built the great Colt's Patent Fire-Arms Company at Hartford.

1333 — Battle of Haldon Hill, 1840 — Britannia, first Cunard steamship, arrived at Boston.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1917—German forces penetrated Russian positions near Zloczow, northeastern Galicia. German Chancellor Michaelis gave his support to unrestricted submarine warfare. Finnish Parliament decreed the independence of Finland.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1942—Boston bombers attacked targets in Lille and Bethune. Stiffened Russian defences slowed down the German drive on Rostov and Stalingrad. Allied bombers attacked the Japanese headquarters at Linchuan and the airfield at Canton.

Capital's Battle of the Bulge

And so it has gone, from the first social spectacular for the See-woosagur Ramgoolams through a succession of other VIPs from near and far, succeeded with the royal entertainment for Her Majesty Elizabeth of Canada and England, and as will go on through the General de Gaulle, the Dr. Fidel Castro, the President Johnson and the rest, to October's end.

The VIPs arrive and depart, relatively unscathed in this War of the Waist.

"Lady Ramgoolam wore a turquoise blue silk embroidered with silver, over a green blouse, colorings of the green island bathed by the sea, known as the star and key of the Indian Ocean."

"Mrs. Pearson's evening gown was fashioned of emerald green satin filigreed with large roses in tones of gold."

China, for centuries, was the most advanced society on earth, flourishing during the Western dark ages with a civilization far more effective and more benevolent than Europe's. For centuries the Chinese considered themselves the salt of the earth and called their country "the Middle Kingdom," meaning the centre of the world; everything around, in their view, was barbarism.

There was a strong racial tinge to this nationalism as to most nationalisms. God, said the Chinese, headed some dough into the shape of a man and put it in the oven but he kept the oven too hot and the dough came out black, a Negro. God tried again, but this time he did not stoke the fire enough and the dough came out insufficiently baked, a white man. The third time, God did things just right and his dough came out golden and perfect, the Chinaman.

And then, the white barbarians burst upon this world of the perfect golden men and violently humiliated it, even seizing coastal enclaves such as Hong Kong. For the historian and for the average man in China this intrusion was an abomination tolerable only if it were considered temporary. It is a matter of record that no advantages brought by the foreigner ever reconciled the Chinese people to his presence. He remained hated and all Chinese regimes vowed to evict him.

This was true of Sun Yat Sen and Chang Kai-shek no less than the Communists. All school children in China are taught geography from maps that show their country extending far into Russia, India, Burma and Pakistan. Such national folklore has a potent force: the Chinese, like people in similar circumstances elsewhere, dream of restoring their rule to their lost dominions.

This dream grips even Chinese millionaires in Hong Kong or Macao who would not be millionaires under Mao. It is not only for the sake of their profitable trade with the Communists that these millionaires maintain the best relations with Peking; they and Mao have more than profits in common—they have their nationalistic dream in common.

That is why the situation in Hong Kong could get out of hand, even though Peking has so far found Hong Kong essential as a commercial outlet and source of precious foreign exchange earned by, among other things, Peking-owned bars and brothels catering to U.S. sailors. The feelings against the hated foreigner, the existing continuities, could make the call of the nationalist dream stronger than the need for profit.

At the moment it appears that the odds are against Sheikh Abdullah's release.

But observers say that the significant development is that many responsible Indians are doing some rethinking on the Kashmir issue.

Support for the grant of limited autonomy to Kashmir is expected to increase in the coming months.

It is argued here that a settlement between Sheikh Abdullah and the Indian government cannot be lightly ignored by Pakistan which is a party to the 20-year-old dispute.

In any case, a reconciliation between Abdullah and New Delhi is bound to receive popular backing inside Kashmir. This may eventually lead to the establishment of a representative regime in Srinagar, the picturesque capital of Kashmir known as the Venice of the East.

The Hong Kong Chinese

By PHILIP DEANE

Even the Chinese who have fled to Hong Kong from Mao enjoy the trouble he causes the British; they have made clear to me each time I have visited Hong Kong. Chinese nationalism, like other nationalisms in Asia, is very strong and Hong Kong's existence is an affront to this feeling.

'Rethinking' on Kashmir

By SUNDAR RAJAN

From New Delhi

A big battle is going on within the Indian government and the ruling Congress Party on the Kashmir issue.

The controversy centres on the question of coming to terms with Sheikh Mohamed Abdullah, the popular leader of Kashmiri Muslims.

Known among his Himalayan people as "Sher-e-Kashmir" or the "Lion of Kashmir," Abdullah is now a prisoner of the Indian government. He was arrested two years ago on a charge of "colluding" with Communist China and Pakistan.

Abdullah has been in prison for most of the time since he was dismissed from the premiership of Kashmir in 1953. At that time the charge against him was that he was planning an independent Kashmir at the behest of the U.S. government and "Western imperialism."

The 62-year-old Kashmiri leader has denied these charges. But he has been insisting that the Kashmir question has not been finally solved as contended by the Indian government.

A section in the Indian cabinet led by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi reportedly holds the diplomatic view between India and Red China and says that the possibility of renewed attempts on the part of the Kashmiri leader and his supporters to get in touch with the sheikh's release or his open trial. Many eminent Indians including former Governor General Chakravarti Rajagopalachari and former Indian Ambassador to the U.S. Gaganbihari Mehta have said that it is undemocratic and illegal to keep the Kashmiri politician in prison.

Jayaprakash Narayan, a Gandhian social worker with great prestige in New Delhi, who was permitted to interview the sheikh, has reported that he no longer believes in independence and will be satisfied with "full autonomy within the Indian union."

But there are powerful forces in the government and the ruling party as well as inside Kashmir which would prefer Abdullah to continue in prison. Deputy Prime Minister Morarji Desai and Foreign Minister Mahomed Chagla are among those who argue that the sheikh has not really changed his mind and that once free he will create trouble in a sensitive border area.

The anti-Abdullah groups also point to the intensification of the diplomatic war between India and Red China and say that the possibility of renewed attempts on the part of the Kashmiri leader and his supporters to get in touch with

Bank Prospects

I would like to make a few observations regarding the Bank of R.C. After the First World War in the Canadian Army Medical Corps as a nursing sister, I went to Los Angeles for health reasons. When I recovered sufficiently I got a position in the Bank of Italy there. It was then emerging into the Bank of America. E. P. Gianinni was the dynamic force that accomplished this.

After the devastating earthquake and fire that practically wiped out San Francisco, E. P. Gianinni who had come from Italy, and some other wealthy Italians started a little bank in a partly demolished building and lent money to needy Italians, without security. They helped to get things started again. They enlarged their bank and as business boomed their bank also boomed and became a very important factor in various developments in California. They then set up large banks in Los Angeles as the Bank of Italy.

The Gianinni group tried unceasingly to get a charter for general banking but were fought from every angle by the eastern banks (especially the Morgan group). Eventually after years of fighting they succeeded in getting a charter for a Bank of California with offices in other states. In the 1920s they changed their name to the Bank of America.

They were a progressive, developing bank and studied the needs of California. They practically got the moving picture business going which has turned out such a fantastic success; they were also the driving force for introducing and developing many other big enterprises. California was then in its infancy of development of the west. The Bank of America, I understand, is now the most outstanding bank in the world.

It seems that with good progressive foresight for the future the Bank of British Columbia should have wonderful prospects. Europe may be coming to the saturation point of development and the Pacific is the bright outlook for the future.

Boy's Clubs

I was astonished to read of lack of municipal support, initially, for the Boys' Club building.

As a former probation officer in Calgary, I can testify to the fact that this splendid organization is almost 100 per cent effective in prevention of delinquency. During my service in the Calgary juvenile court I cannot recall one instance where a member of the club appeared in court; and of the boys who did, I can never remember one of them having come back again on any offence after joining the club.

The Boys' Clubs of Canada cannot be compared with hockey clubs or similar sports groups. Not only is the membership in most cases different but the Boys' Club has an all-round social and hobby program which would often be quite impossible in the home of the child concerned.

Although the splendid building in Calgary opened in 1952 was sponsored by a service club, it has since had whole-hearted support of that city, and in particular, the Calgary Children's Aid Department, which recognizes its great value.

Certainly the need for hospital and chronic homes is most urgent, and must be filled. But we should also support wholeheartedly any organization aimed at building character in our future citizens, more especially those who are in the so-called "underprivileged" groups.

Medical History

During centennial year the Medical Services Journal, Canada, is featuring various historical articles describing the early days of government medicine in Canada. I am collecting historical material for the Department of Veterans' Affairs contribution to the medical care of veterans of all wars. May I appeal to your readers for any memorabilia—interesting pictures, old letters, newspaper clippings, scrapbooks, etc., that might be of use. I am particularly anxious to obtain information concerning Quiltem Millitary Hospital, Reshaven, and the Esquimalt Military Hospital in the days when they were under the control of Military Hospitals Commission or the Soldiers' Re-Establishment Commissioners' Board. Any such material may be sent to me at the Veterans' Hospital, 2355 Richmond Rd., and when used will be returned to their owners.

Profit Motive

Assuming they are sincere, it is difficult at times to comprehend the childlike naivete of newspaper editors, and others, in regard to the economic process of which they are an enthusiastic part.

Take the instance of the July 6 Colonist and the wailing over the inability of the UN to agree on a "peace-keeping" formula for the Middle East, while arms continue to flow into the belligerent countries there. With the sole motive for world production being nothing but sales, for profit—just how is international competition for markets and materials to be avoided?

How can disputes (and consequently violence) be eliminated where competition for the essentials of life is encompassed in the economic foundation of the earth, part of the way of life of humanity? Is it necessary to draw a picture to show that nations are natural war-making entities? The bigger powers need, and are able to compete for the markets and resources of the middle East. They must use violence or threats of violence to further their cause.

Just how ludicrous can we get, to assure that such a bunch of tigers as modern nations are, can successfully get together to achieve a common aim of eating hay?

Twenty-two years ago, when the UN was formed, members of the Socialist Party of Canada knew that UN ideals were in no way connected to the real world of class ownership except in the tranquilized craniums of the world's workers.

The victims are taking a long and painful time to wake up.

Israeli Party Wages Telling Political Offensive

Jews Embarrass Soviet Bloc

International communism is no longer the monolithic structure used to be before the rift between Moscow and Peking.

Soviet-style communism now is being further weakened by a clever political offensive waged by Israel's tiny (13,000 members) Communist Party.

Angered by Soviet support of the Arabs, Moscow propaganda with strongly anti-Semitic overtones and lack of "Socialist morality" in the Kremlin's policies, the Israeli Communists are sending out salvo after salvo of letters, questionnaires and messages to "fraternal organizations" abroad.

Replies received so far indicate that the powerful Paris and Marseille branches of the French Communist Party, the Rome and Milan branches of the Italian Communist Party, the Communist parties of Austria, Switzerland and Denmark and the Communist-front intellectual groups in England, Holland and Norway support Israel and condemn Moscow's "anti-Marxist" attitude in the Middle Eastern crisis.

To observers not versed in the intricacies of dialectical materialism, this may seem unimportant, but the Kremlin regards the situation as serious. The darts sent out by the Israeli Reds hit home where it hurts.

After Poland's Red boss Wladyslaw Gomulka likened the Israeli army to Hitler's Wehrmacht and Israeli policies in the occupied territories to Nazi genocide, the Israeli Reds sent a message to the central committee of Polish Communist Party, with copies to all "fraternal organizations" abroad.

The letter pointed out that following the migration of Slav tribes from Silesia, Pomerania and East Prussia to the Vistula River basin, these areas had been settled by the Germans from 800 to 900 years ago. Before 1939, there were only 150 Poles in Breslau, 70 to 80 in Stettin and none whatever in Koenigsberg.

Yet on the strength of their historic claims to these areas, the Poles had incorporated them in their Communist republic after the Second World War, expelling almost 9,000,000 German refugees and confiscating their property without offering compensation.

The Poles claimed that the Germans had invaded and occupied their country in the Second World War, and they were just exacting retribution and reparations.

Israel, the Communist letter said, was among the first countries to grant recognition to Poland's new Oder-Neisse frontier. Which moral or political right do the Poles now have to describe Israel's struggle for survival of 2,500,000 Jews against 100,000,000 Arabs — as "Hitlerite genocide?"

The Polish Reds did not reply to this letter. But many Communist leaders in the West did answer, in terms not very sympathetic or complimentary to the Warsaw rulers.

A delegation of Norway's Young Communist League had cancelled its scheduled visit to Poland in the wake of this letter.

The Israeli Reds went one step further and sent a 12-point questionnaire to the

By LEO HEIMAN
From Tel Aviv, Israel

Control Commission of the Soviet Communist Party's Central committee. The questionnaire was designed to clarify several historical points, such as: which forms of aggressive action did Finland (3,000,000 people) commit against Russia (200,000,000) to justify the Soviet-Finnish war of 1939-1940?

At what period in history did Russian settlers or tribes inhabit the part of East Prussia that had been incorporated into the Kaliningrad Oblast of the Soviet Union after the Second World War? What happened to the 1,000,000 German residents of this region, their property, land, houses?

Why did the Crimean Tatar

Republic vanish off the map? What was the reason of its incorporation in the Ukrainian Soviet Republic? What happened to the 1,000,000 Tatars who lived there before 1944?

The Soviet reply took an unusual form. Moscow set up a powerful radio station in Tiflis (Tbilisi), called it "The Voice of Peace and Socialism" and began broadcasting in Hebrew 12 hours a day. The broadcasts are received in Israel loud and clear.

There are three announcers, two men and a woman. One of them speaks with a "sabra" (native-born Israeli) accent. The other man's Hebrew is perfect too, but with a slight Russian pronunciation. He has been identified as Ivan Sokolov, a Hebrew-speaking Tass correspondent who spent many years in the Holy Land before being exposed as a colonel of the KGB secret police and a key member of Moscow espionage network in the Middle East.

The woman is believed to be the daughter of a senior Soviet diplomat who attended a Hebrew-language school in Israel. The station broadcasts warnings to the "duped people of Israel" to accept "the verdict of history or perish. It also beams daily diatribes against "the despicable fractionists in Tel Aviv" who smear the Communist movement's image by "poison-pen letters."

The Communist Party of Czechoslovakia was asked in an "open letter" why it expelled some 3,000,000 Sudeten Germans, confiscating their property without compensation, instead of offering them national autonomy, self-determination and other rights the Czech comrades favor now.

To Yugoslavia's Communist League, whose President Tito recently described Israel as an "imperialist colony," the Israeli Reds sent photostatic copies of Tito's letters to Shmuel Mikunis, the Israeli Communist Party boss.

Dated 1943 and 1949, the letters requested the moral support of Israeli Reds in Belgrade's ideological and political dispute with Moscow, and reviewed the military assistance granted by Yugoslavia to the Jewish state in the 1948 independence war.

"Your struggle was just and we backed it wholeheartedly. We now expect you to give sympathetic consideration to our on in the unfortunate misunderstanding with the comrades in Moscow," Tito pleaded with Mikunis.

No reply was forthcoming from Belgrade, nor was one expected. But the verbiage and impact of Israel's Communist counter-offensive resulted in a slight slow-peddling of the Soviet campaign against Israel and an apologetic tone in Moscow's messages to major Communist parties in the West.

Filling Mideast Power Vacuum

Russia Moves In

By STEWART HENSLEY
From Washington

Western diplomats are haunted by the fear that Moscow, moving to fill the power vacuum in the Arab world, may succeed in gaining the foothold in the Middle East that Russian rulers have coveted for centuries. European diplomats here tend to agree with the U.S. assessment that Russia is seeking not only to impose control on the Egyptian military machine but also to force internal government reforms as a price for rearming President Nasser and keeping him aloof economically.

The Soviet Union poured a huge amount of military equipment into Egypt during the period between the Israeli-Arab cease-fire and July 1, replacing one-half of Nasser's aircraft losses and one-quarter of the tanks destroyed.

The flow was suddenly cut off after the first of this month. But Nasser is understood to have been forced to agree to accept a large number of Soviet military advisers, spread throughout his entire military establishment, as a price for the aid given so far.

The question now, it appears to diplomatic circles, is the price that Russia will be able to exact from Nasser in return for other assistance he desperately needs.

With his military forces only partially restored, the Egyptian leader finds his economy shattered and no prospects for keeping the country alive without prompt aid from some source.

His financial reserves are gone, the cotton crop has been largely ruined by an infestation of cutworms, and the Suez Canal is still blocked by ships the Egyptians themselves sank.

In addition to the revenue loss from the canal closure, Egypt now gets none of the lucrative tourist trade.

American officials estimate Egypt's food import needs at 250,000 tons of wheat per month. Already heavily mortgaged to the Russians for earlier assistance, the Egyptians are more than ever at the mercy of Moscow unless they can get the Chinese Communists to help them.

Russia has promised 650,000 tons of wheat this year; 250,000 tons is believed to have been delivered. But even the full Russian commitment would not prevent starvation in Egypt. Nasser apparently must strike the best bargain he can with the Russians.

Hope of Peace Remote as Ever

By HAROLD MORRISON, from London

Intensified Arabian diplomatic activity, accompanied by a continuing heavy flow of Soviet arms to Egypt, suggests it is only a matter of time before a fresh chapter is written in Middle East bloodshed, despite the presence of the United Nations observers along the Suez Canal.

The observers can watch and raise an alarm if either side launches new attacks, but they cannot do much more than that. And their movements are so circumscribed that they may not see all that is going on.

The one hope of peace, through a settlement at the conference table, seems to be as remote as ever. President Nasser of Egypt, still the key man despite his shattered image, shows no sign of trying to get along with the Israelis.

Instead he is concentrating on restoring his Arab leadership, whipping up new excitement about seeking revenge to eliminate the bitterness of defeat and leaning more heavily than ever on Soviet support.

It takes time and training to rebuild a shattered military machine and until Nasser is fully poised for a new gamble on the field, he likely will play along with the idea of cease-fire observers and other means of preventing further Israeli action.

The presence of the Soviet naval squadron in Egyptian ports also provides a form of screen or inhibiting factor to make the Israelis think twice about instituting fresh operations. The squadron also constitutes a dangerous new element in the tense situation for even an accidental Israeli rocket attack against these ships could provide excuse for direct Soviet retaliation.

Indeed, it may be to Nasser's advantage to have the Soviet ships close at hand in the hope that just such an accident or other incident could trigger full Soviet involvement. Whether the United States would stand by and ignore collusion would be another matter.

It would appear more likely the Russians realize there is a limit to what they can do in the Middle East without arousing the prospect of a conflict with the U.S.

As the lines between Moscow and Cairo grow stronger, there is a factor Nasser cannot ignore. With the growth of this radical, foreign and atheistic influence, he may have some difficulties fanning the fires of a "holy" war. Saudi Arabia, for one, is reported to watch the growth of Soviet influence with some distaste.

Combined British Operation Shrewd Strategy

Tanker Sailed Into Trap

OF, from London

One of those nautical cat-and-mouse games, the kind that helped Britannia rule the waves in her glory days, is credited with putting the Liberian-registered oil tanker Lake Palourde in the clutches of the British government at Singapore.

The Lake Palourde's arrest on the other side of the world Saturday night, with the strings being pulled in London, is being hailed here as about the shrewdest bit of global sea strategy since the tracking down of the raiders Bismarck and Graf Spee in the Second World War.

As pieced together here, legal expertise, naval intelligence, diplomatic codes and radio eavesdropping all combined to trap the $18,000,000 sister ship of the Torrey Canyon, whose oil cargo disfigured British beaches when it grounded and broke up off the Cornwall coast last March.

The British government has been trying to sue the Torrey Canyon's owners — the Barracuda Tanker Co. of Bermuda — for the $8,700,000 beach cleanup bill. But until it laid hands on the Lake Palourde it had not been able to manoeuvre the firm into a position where a worthwhile chunk of its assets would come under a British court.

The company would submit to court jurisdiction only in Bermuda, where it has no assets worth mentioning. It is merely an address of convenience for the Barracuda parent, Union Oil of California. Britain did not expect other Barracuda vessels to come calling here, where it was known a court writ had been issued.

So the treasury solicitor's office opened up a line of surveillance on the 61,275-ton Lake Palourde and another sister ship, the 67,000-ton Samalena. Naval intelligence was called in to plot their daily movements.

Meanwhile, the government took out writs against the company in several ports subject to British jurisdiction. Unlike the ones issued in London and Bermuda, these were not served but quietly tucked away until one or another would become useful. Agents at the ports got instructions by coded messages.

The London centre of the web was among the first to hear when the Lake Palourde, bound from Los Angeles for a cargo of Middle East crude oil, turned for Singapore — ironically, to pick up a couple of coils of wire rope.

Tipped by its listening posts, headquarters told a Singapore law firm to get out a warrant, and it was ready to be posted to the meet when the tanker sailed in.

Officials here said the government wants a bond of about $9,000,000 posted for release of the ship.

Courtroom ParadeCar Theft Brings Jail Term

A 28-year-old man was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary when he pleaded guilty to stealing a car owned by Budget Rent-A-Car, 843 Douglas.

Det. Edward Hardy said Clarence Larson, no fixed address, rented a 1967 model car from the firm June 4. He paid a $25 deposit and agreed to have the car back by 6 p.m. that day.

The car was later found in Lloydminster, Sask., and had been stripped of its accessories. Larson was located by police in Kamloops.

Asked why he stole the car, Larson told the court: "We got all drunk up and took off."

He admitted previous convictions for breaking and entering, theft and false pretences. He said he had been released from jail April 28.

People who make false statements to immigration officers should know they are open to deportation, Magistrate William Oster said.

Before him were three Chinese who pleaded guilty to making false statements under the Immigration Act.

Mun Ng Ork was fined $350, his wife Wong Sue Ling, who lives at 1608 Camosun with her husband, was fined $300, and Lum Yu Chun, 3970 Shelbourne, was fined $350.

Robert Hutchison, who appeared for the Crown, said Mun Ng Ork gave false information when sponsoring his wife's entry into Canada. He had also entered the country under a false name, but was not being prosecuted on this because of the amnesty granted by the government.

Wong Sue Ling repeated the false information given by her husband when bringing her parents and three brothers into Canada from Hong Kong.

Lum Yu Chun gave the name of a Victoria man as her husband when applying to enter Canada, Mr. Hutchison said.

Five Charges

William Leslie Neen, no fixed address, was sentenced to six months definite and one year indeterminate in jail when he appeared in court on five charges.

He pleaded guilty to an earlier hearing to breaking into a house at 1940 Redfern, to stealing a car from that house, to gaining lodgings by fraud at the Yarm Hotel, 712 Yates, and stealing bedding from the hotel, and to breaking into Henry's Grill, 1020 Blanshard.

A 20-year-old sailor who shouted obscenities at the shore patrol and police Monday night on Johnson Street was fined $25 for causing a disturbance.

Richard Chappell, 14 MCS Beacon Hill, pleaded guilty.

Gerald McDonald, 19, of 1421 Harrison, was fined $150 and placed on a $250 bond for six months for causing mischief. McDonald had admitted throwing kitchen utensils around in a house at 519 Craigflower June 18. He was ordered to pay $161.38 in compensation.

Three youths were each fined $50 for consuming liquor in a public place. John McCabe, William Rayman and Lawrence Zilinsky, all of HMCS Qu'Appelle, were seen drinking beer in a car near Qualicum Beach July 7.

Leander Drover of Calgary, who drove at speeds reaching 65 miles an hour Monday night on Lampson Street and ran several stop signs, was fined $75 for careless driving. His licence was suspended.

Fined in traffic court for careless driving: Stanley Cook of Seattle, $85; Geoffrey Barnes, CFB Esquimalt, $35; James Hamilton, 3249 Clement, $35; Alfred Holmwood of Seattle, $35; Robert Murray, 723 Craigflower, $40.

'Giving Employers Blank Cheque'Joey's Remarks Called 'Dictatorial' by CLC

OTTAWA (CP) — Newfoundland Premier Smallwood's remarks at the official onset of the Churchill Falls hydroelectric power project were described Tuesday as "dictatorial" in a Canadian Labor Congress statement.

"Mr. Smallwood has clearly indicated that he is quite prepared to intervene in any labor disputes that may occur by having the law of the province immediately changed to outlaw work stoppages," CLC executive vice-president Joseph Morris said in the statement.

"In effect, he is giving employers a blank cheque, regardless of their compliance with the law, and he has blatantly invited the workers to 'try me'."

Mr. Morris added that "this dictatorial attitude" also is reflected in the premier's emphasis on the fact that the Labrador resources are Newfoundland property.

LABOR DISCONTENT

Premier Smallwood told workmen at Churchill Falls Monday that troubleshooters will be appointed to report and root out labor discontent during the five-year project.

He promised Newfoundlanders preference in hiring, urged them not to do anything to hurt the project, and said of the province's jurisdiction at Churchill Falls: "This is our river. This is our waterfall."

Man Committed on Murder Charge

James Frederick Redlin was committed by Magistrate William Oster in central court Tuesday to stand trial on the charge of murdering Mrs. Lavina Nicholson at the Sassenos Shop-Easy May 9.

The committal was made after the Crown called its 17th witness. The defence, conducted by Nicholas Mussalem of Vancouver, did not call any witnesses or make any submissions.

Britain Extends Freeze

LONDON (AP) — The House of Commons Tuesday extended for another year the price and wage controls imposed a year ago as part of the austerity program to halt inflation and stabilize the pound.

The price and incomes bill was approved 202 to 146, although at least 22 members of found him to be suffering head injuries and severe cerebral compressions.

An examination of the brain area showed some damage and a later examination showed this damage to be caused by hemorrhaging, he said.

Dr. Brian Perry-Whittingham said he examined Redlin at the Jubilee Hospital May 9 and May 9. He found a long laceration on the left side of Redlin's skull and a fracture of the nose and cheekbones.

Staff-Sergeant Hugh Van Dusen, a gunnery expert with the RCMP, said he fired test bullets from the rifle and found they matched with three expended shells found lying in the hallway of the store.

He said the receiver tanks of the rifle, which push bullets into firing position, were defective. This followed Monday's testimony that the rifle had shells in the magazine but none in the chamber although it was cocked.

Sgt. W. B. Robertson, a chemist with the RCMP crime laboratory, said he analysed a blood sample taken from Redlin on May 9 and found the blood alcohol content to be .14 per cent.

This, he said, constituted impairment.

Kenneth Murphy appeared for the Crown.

Brentwood artist George Clutesi could be one of several West Coast Indian artists likely to benefit from a new trend in the fashion world.

Samples of his work, and that of Henry Speck of Alert Bay, and Alice Jeffrey of Prince Rupert are amongst those being collected by two Vancouverites who intend to translate the designs into high fashion colors for prints.

Fashion designer Inga Nielsen and her business partner, Les Lavers, have been studying the art of Indians and Eskimos in libraries and museums.

The two have also been working with native artists who will receive royalties if their designs are used.

Multi-Million Project on McRae Estate?

By A. H. MURPHY

A multi-million-dollar commercial development which would include a 100-room, self-contained hotel, a nine-hole golf course, a residential area and a shopping centre was envisaged Tuesday for the McRae estate. At the same time, an arbitration hearing, empowered to set a value on farmland expropriated by Saanich, was told the land would be worth $3,500,000 to the owner if sold in stages over a six-to-nine-year period.

On Monday, when the hearing opened at the law courts, the three-man board was informed by Victoria appraiser and real estate man Philip Jackson that the land was worth $3,070,000.

NANAIMO FIRM
The $3,500,000 appraisal was made Tuesday by Mladen Gjinio-Zorkin, president of the Nanaimo real estate and insurance investment firm of M. G. Zorkin and Co. Ltd.

Principal witness for the McRaes, Mr. Zorkin was on the stand all day. His was the commercial projection which he described in detail as a possible use for the expropriated farm, which includes Cedar Hill Golf Course and which has been described at various times as 102.6, 120 and 143 acres in size.

UNIVERSITY PARK
Mr. Zorkin, who was subjected to intense cross-examination by Saanich counsel Louis Lindholm, described a University Park proposal.

Twenty acres would be devoted to hotel and motel development on the north, and on the south 10 acres would be given over to commercial and neighborhood-type shopping and theatre area.

Sixty acres on the perimeter would be given over to high-rises, town houses and apartment buildings, and the perimeter development would all enclose a nine-hole golf course in the centre.

LIKE MOTHER
"It would be embraced by the development as a mother embraces her child," said Mr. Zorkin.

No price tag was put on the concept by the witness although he did say, when asked, if services would be provided by the municipality to such a development.

EVERY ASPECT
"I would think that for a $20,000,000 development, they would put sewers anywhere—in the sky if necessary."

"I think this whole thing is rather a pie-in-the-sky development, don't you?" countered Mr. Lindholm.

Hammered relentlessly in cross-examination, Mr. Zorkin defended every aspect of his plan. It would be the highest and best use to which the property could be put, he stoutly maintained, and would be one which would benefit not only the owner of the land and the developer, but to the community at large.

He admitted, however, the concept did not "seize my mind" until he went to the property six to eight weeks ago on instructions from the McRae counsel, Robert Price.

FAIR VALUE
Fair market value for the land right now would be $2,650,000, Mr. Zorkin said. The $3,500,000 total would be a fair offer in six or more years.

Questioned on the economic viability of his project and the fact that the city might be already overbuilt with apartments, Mr. Zorkin outlined his philosophy on the subject.

The more good apartment units which were built, the more people would be there to occupy them, he said.

LOOK IN FUTURE
The city's growth and consequent building should not be projected on the people who were now here, but on the people who would come to the city once good accommodation was made available to them.

It was possible to overbuild if the wrong kind of accommodation was provided, but good accommodation invariably created its own market, he said.

AGAIN TODAY
The hearing continues today. It will probably continue next week as the owners, in two days, have not completed their case.

The hearing is solely for the purpose of setting compensation for the McRae family, which has owned the land since the early 1800s, as expropriation proceedings have been completed and Saanich holds title to the tract.

Adventurers Back

Eleven-Day Trip into Nitinat Wilds

By NANCY BROWN

Metchoin Adventurers have just returned from an 11-day trip of exploration into the wild and woolly Nitinat country, on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

They were greeted by a tomahawk-wielding Indian at Cloosee, and they lost a hat at a sea-fet blowhole near the mouth of the Nitinat River.

They explored Indian burial caves, and the spectacular Tulsat Falls, some 80 feet high and 100 feet across.

They arrived home Saturday, convinced Vancouver Island is the finest place in Canada for an adventure trip.

The 14 boys and four adults who made the trip were members of the Metchoin Adventurers and Exploration club, which is affiliated with the Junior Forest Rangers.

Led by Christopher Pike, a veteran camper, they left Metchoin July 6.

His assistants were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Waterman and Leslie Sykes.

The boys, who ranged from nine to 15 had trained for the trip with weekend camps, rain or shine, all through the winter months.

They drove to Cayce, and then to the Nitinat Lake, travelling to the head of the lake in the B.C. Forest Products boat, Nitinat Queen. They set up base camp in Brown's Bay, and on July 6 walked along an old trail to Cloosee.

Here they received a warm welcome when the only inhabitant, Joshua Edgar, 74, put on a show for them rushing down the beach with a wild war cry and brandishing knife and tomahawk.

Later, he gave the party a big salmon.

They visited the blowhole, a sea-fet phenomenon which sometimes shoots water 100 feet high.

A side trip to the Carmanagh Light, past Indian Head rock, was an 18-mile, two-day hike. On the way back they found an Indian carving in the rock.

The carving, said Mr. Pike, though seaworn, appeared to be of a Spaniard.

The group also fished to the Tulsat Falls and on the way home explored big caves, which had been traditional Indian burial grounds.

On the beach the boys found souvenirs a-plenty.

They brought glass floats of all sizes and many fossils—one particularly beautiful one was of a leaf.

"I'm sure you could have found anything you wanted on that beach," said Mr. Pike.

"Some of the things might have been broken, but there were chairs, chains, china and metal."

David Titus was the youngest boy on the trip. The others were Wolfgang, Jocell and Nicol Carlsfeld, Wayne Robinson, Murray Greig, Glen Crockett, Duffey King, Christopher Coward, Garth Dickman, Peter Smith, and Steven and Rian Titus.

'He's All Right'

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)

A young mother scrambled from a truck and wept openly as she stumbled and ran across a field to where her young son was being carried to safety after he had been lost three days in dense bushland.

Cecile Vanderleest of Drayton Valley, Alta., snatched the barefoot three-year-old child from the shoulders of a searcher, clutched him to her and sank to the ground.

Kenneth, object of an all-out weekend search, had wandered away from his father's jeep which had become mired in mud on a little-used road, 14 miles north of Hudson's Hope, B.C., and 450 miles north of Vancouver.

His mother had been quietly watching the arrival and departure of search parties, involving up to 800 men, since she flew to the area early in the weekend.

Then came a shout: "He's been found. He's all right."

The father, Leo Vanderleest, said Kenneth had promised to wait in the vehicle while he went for a tractor to get it out of the mud.

The parents said the boy lost weight, but seemed alert and in good condition. However, he appeared to be drained of emotion and shed no tears.

He was thirsty and was given a little water while being driven to Hudson's Hope. He was then flown to hospital here.

Infra-red photography equipment carried by one helicopter during the search was intended to pick up body heat from the ground. The equipment detected some wild game, but did not relay any sign of the missing boy.

Saanich council Monday night endorsed a finance committee recommendation to give $1,000 for each of the next four years—a total contribution of $4,000—to the Victoria Boys Club. Victoria city council is giving $32,000.

Expo 70 in Japan

Own Pavilion For B.C. Confirmed

British Columbia acting in cooperation with private industry in the province, will have its own pavilion at Expo 70 in Osaka, Japan, Premier Bennett confirmed Tuesday.

Mr. Bennett told a press conference he has the blessings of Ottawa in the venture and Trade Minister Lofmark has already started negotiations with Japanese fair officials for a site.

DETAILS COMING

It wasn't clear whether the premier meant industry would share the cost of the pavilion with B.C. or if the co-operation would extend only as far as exhibits.

Mr. Lofmark said details of the co-operation between government and private industry haven't yet been worked out.

Mr. Bennett said he has set no financial or design guidelines for the B.C. pavilion and will wait until Mr. Lofmark's committee comes up with suggestions before making a final decision.

The $30,000,000 suit launched against B.C. Hydro by contractors on the Peace River power-house has nothing to do with the provincial government, Premier Bennett said Tuesday.

FOR CHAIRMEN

"It has nothing to do with government policy," the premier told a press conference. "This is a straight question for the co-chairmen of Hydro and the directors. It also has nothing to do with the premier as fiscal agent."

Mr. Bennett declined to comment further on the suit launched in B.C. Supreme Court Monday.

Premier Bennett, who once said James Coyne, then governor of the bank of Canada, was the worst governor in his history and should be fired, Tuesday didn't have a harsh word for his old antagonist.

FIRING COMMENT

Asked to comment on the firing of Mr. Coyne as founder-president of the Bank of Western Canada, Mr. Bennett said: "I never hit a man when he's down."

Highways Minister Gagliardi, who wants to see automated rail cars carrying commuters at 50 m.p.h. above the sidewalks of Lion's Gate bridge and inter downtown Vancouver, drew a laugh from Premier Bennett Tuesday.

'NEXT QUESTION'

"Next question please," Mr. Bennett told a press conference when asked to comment on the suggestion and the Premier joined in the general laughter.

Mr. Gagliardi after returning from a two-day jet trip to inspect the latest park and ride commuter systems in eastern Canada and the U.S., said he had done his duty in bringing them to public notice. He has ordered an engineering assessment of the findings.

Victoria Pair Beats Panel

Victoria's "beautiful salmon" received a continent-wide television plug Sunday night — and the octopus-hunting McGuire brothers beat the panel on What's My Line.

Brothers Frank, 116 South Turner, and John, 1024 Pandora, outlasted the experts in the New York telecast. It was Bennett Cef who, when it became obvious some sort of salt water life was involved, said:

"There are some beautiful salmon up there (in the Victoria area). Would they be involved?"

Rocks Could End Trend With Win Over 'Bellies

Coach Dave Unwin and the Victoria Shamrocks will be out to end a current trend in Inter-City Lacrosse League action when they play New Westminster Salmonbellies tonight at Memorial Arena.

Coquitlam's 5-4 victory at Vancouver Tuesday marked the sixth straight victory by a visiting club and the seventh in the last eight league games.

One thing Rocks have going for them is the season's performance where the home clubs have won 28 of 45 games with one being tied, Victoria has the best home record, eight wins and three losses.

Another is the return of spectacular goalkeeper Barry Forbes as Shamrocks attempt to regain first place with a win tonight. But New Westminster is the

Champs Score on Bunts For First Tourney Win

Defending B.C. Babe Ruth champions Trail All-Stars bunted Sanich Evening Optimists silly Tuesday for a 4-2 victory at Royal Athletic Park.

The loss meant that there can't be an all-Victoria area final in the tournament. In fact, after today, only one team will be alive in the double knockout tournament as Victoria, 1-3 losers to Fraserview in the opener Monday, meet Sanich today at 6 p.m. with the loser eliminated. Sanich seemed to lose their

AT THE 19th With Harry Young

Champions and former champions of at least eight countries will be included in the 30 players taking part in next month's Commonwealth tournament at Victoria Golf Club.

The Canadian team alone carries the present Canadian champion, Nick Welock, the present U.S. champion Gary Cowan, and former Canadian champions John Johnston and Keith Alexander.

In the British team, Mike Bonallack is a former British champion and Ron Shide is the Scottish champion. The current champions of South Africa, New Zealand, Australia and Brazil are also in the field.

There can be little doubt that in five days of match play — both four-man and singles — these great players will put on some wonderful entertainment.

In so star-studded a field it is difficult to individualize, but mention must be made of the Fortar master-bowler, Sandy Sadder. This chivalry-built young Scot had the distinction in the third Commonwealth tournament at Royal Sydney Golf Course in Australia of being the only player in the field who didn't lose a match — either in singles or four-man.

Although the draw for the tournament has been made and each country knows its opponent for each day, the individual matches will not be known until the evening before each day's play.

The captains of the five countries each evening will submit to the tournament committee his list of foursome partners in the order in which they will play the next day and also list his singles players from one to six.

The partnerships and the order of play may be varied after each match if the captain so wishes, but none of them will know what his rival is doing.

The Canadian non-playing captain is Phil Farley, the president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, and his is an apt choice for he was one of the six Canadians chosen to take part in the first Commonwealth tournament at St. Andrews in 1953.

Gerald Micklen, who is to be the R and A official representative in Victoria; was also a player in the first Commonwealth tournament, an event in which Victorian Bobby Fleming took part.

One of the problems yet to be solved for the local organization handling both the Commonwealth and the Canadian Amateur Championship and Willingdon Cup at Royal Colwood is music.

Impressive flag-raising ceremonies will be held at both the Victoria and Royal Colwood Clubs before the start of each tournament, and it is the custom to have a military or naval band in attendance.

Unfortunately, as this is Centennial year, all the B.C. services bands are heavily engaged across the country, and none is available.

John, Wilson Pace Molsons

Tom Walker drove in three runs with a pair of singles for the losers. All of Red Lions' runs were unearned as Molsons committed four errors.

Jim John's three-run home run and a bases loaded triple by Jim Wilson helped Molsons whip Red Lions 11-4, Tuesday in Men's Senior Open Softball League Play at Central Park.

Bob Marsden drove in two runs on three singles as Molsons banged out 10 hits off Red Lions' pitchers Al McKenzie and Dennis Beaulac.

Ed Kubek picked up the win with relief help from Wade Burns in the sixth inning.

CHICAGO (AP) — Halfback Jon Arnett of Chicago Bears announced Tuesday he is retiring from professional football because of business interests in Los Angeles.

Arnett, 32, is a 10-year veteran in the National Football League and came to the Bears from Los Angeles Rams in 1964.

The wind blew strongly at Oak Bay Saturday to the confusion of the Point Grey golfers who had a team match there. The Vancouverites lost 6 1/2 to 1 1/2.

Swimmers Enjoy Training Snack

Victoria swimmer Mary Pumfrey, 14, expresses pure pleasure as she and team-mate Angelia Cloughan, also 14, of Burlington, Ont., prepare to sit down for an afternoon snack at Pan-Am Village in Winnipeg. Eating is one of the few pleasures the young athletes have time for in their rugged training schedule. — (CP)

Klass Drops Golf Threat

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Jack Klass of Woodland Hills, Calif., decided Tuesday not to seek an injunction to stop play of the $18,000 Sunningdale Open golf tournament in which his 10-year-old daughter, Beverly, was refused entry.

Klass had threatened to stop the tournament, which starts Thursday, if the Sunningdale officials refused to let her play.

But it was Lenny Wirtz, director of the Ladies Professional Golfers Association, who earlier Tuesday personally accepted the responsibility of deciding to reject Beverly's entry.

The girl's entry was filed by Toronto lawyer R. Allan Eagleson. He was immediately handed a prepared statement rejecting the entry.

Susan Brown Leads But Misses Team

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three golfers from Vancouver and one from Kamloops were named Tuesday to represent British Columbia at the women's inter-provincial golf tournament in Saskatoon Aug. 8.

Gayle Hitchens, Barbara Renwick and Janet McWha, all of Vancouver, and Marilyn Palmer of Kamloops were chosen after two qualifying rounds of the B.C. women's close tournament here.

Susan Brown of Vancouver is leading the tournament, but she failed by two points to make the B.C. team after the selection committee considered previous scores.

Miss Brown had a 75 Tuesday, as the tournament prepared to move into match play today. She has a 149 total.

Miss Hitchens has 74-77-151, Miss McWha 74-78-152, and Miss Renwick 83-74-157.

Other leaders include Helen Marlett of Chilliwack at 158, Mrs. J. A. Smyth of Vancouver, 159, and Mrs. R. E. Bartley of Vancouver, 161.

LONDON (AP) — A Canadian-born millionaire tried to buy one of England's most famous soccer clubs, the Daily Mail newspaper reported Tuesday.

Sports writer Mervyn Thomas said the offer for Wolverhampton Wanderers "which would have involved about one million dollars" came from Jack Kent Cooke, president of the newly formed Los Angeles soccer club.

A bid by Cooke to buy control of Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League was rejected Monday.

Off-Track Betting Shop Opens, Authorities Consider Legality

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — Pari-mutuel Brokers, an off-track betting establishment operated by Bob Gruhl, 34, of Port Colborne set up Tuesday without police interference.

Provincial officials said legality of the operation may depend on its size.

The operation involves taking bets from customers who can't get to the Fort Erie racetrack and placing bets through the pari-mutuel machines at the track, charging a fee for the service.

A Port Colborne restaurant owner, Gruhl said his service charge is on a sliding scale — 50 cents to place a $2 bet at the track, ranging up to $5 for a $100 bet.

The crown attorney's office declined comment until Crown Attorney Donald Scott returns from vacation. A spokesman for the Attorney-General's department said in Toronto:

"Whether it's technically illegal would depend very much on the circumstances. But anyone who engages in this in a big way is running awfully close to the law."

Amazing Cubs Win Another, Cards Beaten

Perhaps it's time to wonder if Chicago Cubs haven't been slandered by the astonishment which has greeted their bid for the top in the National League. It could be well that they have the talent to belong where they are.

Where they are this morning is only one game out of the lead with the second-best percentage among the 20 major-league baseball clubs.

They picked up another full game with their fourth straight win, a 9-3 romp over Atlanta Braves, who had been edging into contention and had a four-game win streak going.

Shortstop Don Kessinger, who celebrated his 25th birthday on Monday with four successive hits, carried on yesterday with four more hits which plated five runs.

It made things easy for Ferguson Jenkins, the Canadian right-hander breezing to his 12th win as he helped himself along the way with three successive doubles. A three-run homer by Cleto Boyer in the seventh inning wrecked double hopes.

Cincinnati Reds moved within two and a half games of the lead by defeating the leading St. Louis Cardinals, 7-3.

With Jim Lonborg pitching a five-hitter and striking out 11 as he became the first pitcher in the majors to win 13 games this season, the Red Sox rolled over Baltimore Orioles, 6-2, for their fifth straight win.

It left them only two and a half games behind the leading Chicago White Sox and a game and a half behind the runner-up Minnesota Twins. The Sox have lost only two more games than the White Sox, and only one more than the Twins.

Chicago was beaten, 6-3, last night by the California Angels, who are fifth but only three and a half games in arrears, and the Twins were knocked off, 5-2, by Kansas City Athletics.

Bennett Wins Low Gross In Navy Golf

Al Bennett shot the low Canadian gross score in the July monthly medal round of the Royal Canadian Naval Golf Association at Uplands Golf Club on Monday. He carded an 81.

Other Canadian winners were Lieut.-Cmdr. Jim Bottomley, low net of 68; PO Tom Murray, low gross (43) front nine; Ted Langlois, low gross (39) back nine; PO Bill Walters, low net (35) first nine; Lieut.-Cmdr. Bill Sargent, low net (33) second nine.

PO Bob Eaplen won the duffers' prize with 120 and Cmdr. C. Smith, LS Jim Godfrey and CPL John House won beginners' prizes with nets of 71, 72 and 74, respectively.

About 100 golfers, many of them from American ships taking part in a separate competition, took part.

Expo Fights to Hold Paavo Nurmi Statue

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials are engaged in an effort to keep the statue of Finnish Olympic runner Paavo Nurmi at Expo 67's Olympic House following a request that the statue be returned to Helsinki.

Henk Hoppener, director of Olympic House, said today a meeting of Expo, Finnish and Olympic House officials was called immediately following Monday's request that the statue be sent back to Finland.

Mr. Hoppener said he was hopeful Finnish authorities will allow the 1,400-pound bronze statue — damaged by vandals last week — to stay until the close in October of the world's fair.

Mr. Hoppener said Expo officials have given assurance that greater security efforts will be made to discourage vandalism and that adequate security has been provided since the monument was restored on its pedestal last Thursday.

with Alec Merriman

For those in the know some of the best fly fishing on Vancouver Island is for the big brown trout in the hot evenings in July.

The best time—in fact about the only time—to get these browns is in the late afternoon until dark when the myriad of different flies drop down onto the water.

Then the big browns put on a show that is tantalizing to all anglers. Like great big cobo in Cowichan Bay in October, the big lunkers that seem to hide all the rest of the year, rise to the surface and swirl. A big tail that looks like a tyre breaking water slaps the surface.

These are the big trout, from two pounds to eight and even 10 and 11 pounds.

The water becomes dimpled with small salmon and trout fry breaking surface and small trout in the eight to 12-inch class splash almost at your feet.

This doesn't happen just anywhere in the Cowichan River, but there are pools, below and above Skutz Falls, where the browns seem to spend their summers.

You have to know where to find these pools and you have to be there until dark. Mostly these pools are to be found after a considerable hike through the bush, and unless you know the country well it is difficult to find your way out in the darkening night.

We fished the Cowichan Thursday night with Bill Clevette, who has been recording some big browns up to seven pounds from the river this summer. Our target was the pools in the vicinity of the old shingle mill, which is between Skutz Falls and Lake Cowichan.

Incidentally, the road to the shingle mill is now blocked by a big log. We don't know why, although it is our understanding the access that is always used to reach the Mill Pool, the Cabin Pool and others in that stretch of river starts in private property. But the river frontage in that area is provincial park reserve.

It is also our understanding there is provision for a public access road, but that it is impassable.

We had a fair hike through rather thick brush to reach Clevette's favorite fishing spot . . . and it is a dandy. A nice little flow into the long, fairly shallow hole at the top end. There is a nice gravel bar to stand on to cast into the riffle and fish into the hole, which is better than 100 yards long and too wide to cast a fly with a fly rod, across to the other side, where the fish seem to lie.

There are two or three ideal fishing spots before the river bends and runs into a little falls, which empties into another hole which we couldn't reach.

Because of the brush that lines the shore, it is impossible to use a fly rod to reach the best fishing spots unless you are an expert caster.

To get around this problem, we used our trout spinning rods with one of those plastic casting floats.

Use about eight-pound test line for the main line. Tie the pointed end of the float towards the rod, otherwise you will tangle your fly leader when you cast. Four or six-pound test leader, about the length of the rod, is ideal, and one fly that gets them is a Blue Dun dry fly, although Pass Lake wet flies and some of the moth flies work well.

With this setup, a dry fly doesn't work very long as a float, but when it is retrieved just below the surface it seems to appeal to the brown trout as a drowning insect, says Clevette.

We cast across the river and a little upstream and let the fly float free, without too much belly in the line, and then let it swing across the river.

Clevette led wife Taffy into a three-pounder on the Blue Dun fly, but that was the only one we got.

"It is too windy," the flies didn't come down to the water as early as they should have," said Clevette.

But we did see those lunkers rising and it was great fun drifting a fly right under their noses trying to entice them.

"I have had that big one on several times but he always beats me," Clevette said. "No, not that big one that is jumping down there. The big one up here in the centre is bigger," he added.

One problem with this late evening fly fishing is that you have to wait for the flies to come, and then they try to make a meal out of you. We had along some of the new CIL G-66 insect repellent lotions, which worked pretty well and make a handy item to keep with your fishing kit.

Tops in Two Events

Canadian Wins at Bisley

BISLEY, England (CP) — A tall, thin French-speaking Canadian who wears sunglasses and likes to whistle while he shoots won two of the top events Tuesday at the annual Bisley rifle meeting.

Pte. Carol Potvin, 26, of Chateaufort, Que., scored 46 out of a possible 50 to win the Secretary of State for War Trophy and 129 out of 150 to take the rapid-firing aggregate competition for the Broad Arrow Challenge Cup.

WINNING SCORE

He had six bullseyes and four fives in the war event, a 10-shot competition fired at 500 yards, and 18 bulls in the aggregate, a three-stage shoot fired at 200, 300 and 500 yards.

In the Broad Arrow Challenge Cup, Potvin's 129 out of a possible 150 was equaled by Sgt. Ldr. R. W. B. Simons of the Royal Air Force. But, under the rules, the Canadian won because he had the better total at the longest range, 500 yards.

The Secretary of State for War competition, first 500-yard shoot in this two-week test of Commonwealth marksmanship, had more than 300 entries.

Fourth place went to Frank Lefer, 38, of Chatham, Ont., a corporal stationed at the Royal Canadian School of Signals, Kingston, Ont.

Bigelow, Champ Tee Off in Seniors

HALIFAX (CP) — Some 100 veterans of Canadian golf—all over the age of 55—tee off today on the 5,322-yard Ashburn Golf Club Course in the sixth annual Royal Canadian Golf Association senior championships.

Among them is Jack Little, 59, of Port Credit, Ont., out to defend the title he won last year with a three-stroke victory in the championships at Brentford, Ont.

He will be touring the par-67 Ashburn layout against probably the stiffest competition in the tournament's brief history.

George Hevenor Sr. of Toronto, winner of the senior crown in 1962, 1964 and 1966; Phil Farley of Toronto, six-time Ontario amateur champion, and Jack Naah of London, Ont., winner of the Ontario amateur title three times, are among the starters.

The 54-hole, three-day tournament over the short, narrow and hilly course opened today.

PLAYS WITH BIGELOW

Little, playing out of the Mississauga Golf Club in Toronto, was scheduled to play today with hole-in-one ace Dr. George Bigelow of Victoria, and Gordon Taylor of Canawald Golf Club of Montreal.

Dr. Bigelow, Canada's amateur hole-in-one champion with 13, shot a one-under-par 66 in a practice round at Ashburn Monday and turned in a 69 in a warm-up Tuesday.

Chris Tolos Disqualified

Don Leo Jonathon was awarded Tuesday's main event in professional wrestling action at Memorial Arena when Chris Tolos was disqualified for hitting his opponent over the head with a chair.

Some of the greatest action came after the pair wrestled among the spectators after the bout was over.

In other matches, a winded Red Boy Shields lost to Don McLarty. Roy McLarty downed Ike Hansen and Rocky Johnson pinned Red McNulty.

NEW YORK (CP) — Joe Frazier, unbeaten former Olympic champion, is a solid favorite over sturdy George Chuvalo of Toronto in a 12-round match tonight designed to weed out the contenders for Cassius Clay's vacated world heavyweight boxing title.

Although Frazier and Chuvalo are boycotting the eight-man tournament of the World Boxing Association, the winner of the 12, all by knockouts over ordinary opponents, his 12-year record of 32 fights is 47-13-2.

The muscular Toronto boxer, father of four children, has been beaten by the likes of Howard King, Bob Baker, Pat McMahon, Tony Akong, Zora Folley, Floyd Patterson, Eduardo Corleto and Clay. His most important asset is that he never has been knocked down. The WBA ranks him No. 10.

Tonight's heavyweight bout-match between George Chuvalo and Joe Frazier can be seen on Channels 2, 6, 7, and 13 starting at 7 p.m. Radio broadcast on CHU (980) starts at the same time.

Madison Square Garden fight is certain to be an important factor in any recognition of a successor to Clay.

Frazier's 16 consecutive pro wins, including 14 knockouts, accounts for the reported 12-5 odds favoring him over the 29-year-old Canadian champion who went 15 rounds with Clay last year.

The 23-year-old Frazier, whose contract is owned by a syndicate of some 232 stockholders, has stopped Eddie Machen and Doug Jones on his way to the No. 2 spot in the WBA ratings. Chuvalo's last big victory was a knockout over Jones but that was way back on Oct. 2, 1964. Although he has won his last

LIKE TO FIGHT

The lure to this match is that both men come to fight. Chuvalo, 6-foot and about 210 pounds, walks in and alarms away at the body all night long while his opponent's best blow rattles off his chin.

Hong Kong Reds Continue Terror by Fire

HONG KONG (AP) — Police and military forces raided terrorist strongholds Tuesday night but the Communists kept up violence by bombing government buildings and burning cars.

Weapons, some home-made bombs and photos of police who may have been marked for assassination were seized in police raids on three Communist headquarters in this British colony next door to Red China. Several persons were arrested.

ONE RAID
In one raid police used acetylene torches to burn their way through heavy iron doors. They found sharpened rods, metal chains, propaganda material and loudspeakers. In other raids they found knives, spears, bombs and water pistols filled with acid.

Continuing a wave of terror that has lasted more than a week, Communists threw a bomb at a post office, injuring two men.

BOMBS THROWN
Terrorists also threw bombs at a building housing the families of police, at a police headquarters and at a health centre. There were no injuries and little damage.

In the face of the latest British government crackdown on suspected Communist strongholds, the 16-story Bank of China, considered the headquarters for the campaign of political harassment and terrorist violence, seemed to be preparing for raiders.

Bank workers placed barricades apparently designed as defenses against possible helicopter landings of British troops or Hong Kong police.

Early customers in beer parlors this morning may be the last to enjoy the "bonus ounce" — that is, if there are any left. Today is the day beer parlors serving out the new 11-ounce glasses because of a recent price hike.

Under Liquor Control Board regulations, they were to serve only 11 ounces of beer for 20 cents starting Monday.

But the new smaller glasses hadn't arrived early in the week, so pubs continued to sell 12-ounce glasses for 20 cents.

Today sometime, as soon as all pubs have the new glasses, the change will be made, with all pubs serving the new size at the same time so no one gets an advantage.

British Columbia's esthetic and economic stature is being extolled in two U.S. publications on the newstands this month.

The July 17 edition of U.S. News and World Report trumpets, "A New Empire Rises in Canada's West."

Reader's Digest edition for August, which goes on sale July 25, extolls "The Incredible British Columbia."

NO AUTHORSHIP

The U.S. News report claims no authorship, but is said to be reported from Vancouver and Prince George.

The Digest report is by Bruce Hutchison, editor of the Vancouver Sun.

"Expo 67 is Canada's big attraction this summer. But it's far west of Montreal that excitement is mounting over unprecedented industrial expansion in British Columbia — a three-way boom that could point to similar development in neighboring Alaska," says the U.S. News lead.

Preview Tuesday Review Today

Victorians watched from Saxe Point—and many places—Tuesday evening as fleet of 25 ships from three navies formed up off Esquimalt in readiness for review at 9:30 a.m. today leading up to spectacular evening show. Air display is due at 8:30 p.m., followed by illumination of ships at 10 and fireworks display at 10:15.—(Jim Ryan)

Spread Out To See Ship Show

Thousands of spectators are expected to line the waterfront from Ogden Point breakwater to Albert Head tonight for the Centennial Naval Assembly show.

Information officer Lt.-Cmdr. Ray Wormald warned Tuesday against viewers concentrating in the Esquimalt Lagoon Road area.

"This is only one of many good vantage points," he said, "and if too many people try to get out there, it could be a long time before they get back."

The day will start as Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes conducts a fleet review from aboard the CNAV Endeavour, at 9:30 a.m., and HMCS Mackenzie, the USS King and the JMSDF Teruzuki will fire a 15-run co-ordinated salute, at 10:25 a.m.

The 50-minute Golden Centennaires aerobatics show starts at 8:30 p.m., and the ships of Canadian, U.S. and Japanese navies will be illuminated at 10 p.m. A spectacular fireworks display begins at 10:15.

At 9 a.m. Thursday, the ships in the assembly will pass the Dallas Road waterfront on their way to Vancouver.

Lt.-Cmdr. Wormald emphasized HMC Dockyard and Royal Roads would not be open to the public tonight.

Lookout Damaged

Vandals knocked out six building blocks Monday night at the lookout being built at Clover Point. The lookout will be opened by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes Friday.

Mill Bay Kid Case

Goat-Deer Link 'Impossible'

Local biologists chorused a curt "impossible" Tuesday to the report that a three-pound, white-haired kid born Saturday at the Good Shepherd shelter at Mill Bay was fathered by a deer.

"It's a mistake," said Charles Guiguet, curator of animals at the Provincial Museum.

But Mother Cecilia, shelter operator, said she is "fairly convinced" the offspring of the 12-year-old nanny goat Althea was sired by a deer — because the only mature goat at the shelter is kept from the females.

"It looks more like a deer," she said, referring to the kid's sharply-pointed ears, "golden" tinged coat, deer-like hooves and extra-long hind legs.

Mr. Guiguet, who has not seen the animal, said the deer and goat are of different genera, species and family, and there is no likelihood of their mating.

"Their difference in gestation period, for example, is far apart," he said. "The black-tail deer's is 210 days the domestic goat's is 150."

"We get a lot of this," he said. "People bring in old tomcats that are big, furry and have tail markings, and they insist they are crosses between cats and coons. But it's impossible."

University of Victoria biologist Dr. Edwin Hagmeier also discounted the claim, but said he hoped to get out to view the animal sometime.

Alan Best, curator of the Vancouver Zoo, agreed, saying, "I would have to see it to believe it — and then, I would have quite a job believing it."

Althea, the nanny goat, is believed to have wandered out to graze near an unfenced portion of the shelter grounds where she met a buck.

So until the tiny animal starts bleating properly, or a group of experts goes out to have a first hand look, Little Doe-Peep will remain a puzzling pet.

Garbage Fires Worst

Star Study Hurt By City Smoke

By JIM BRAHAN

Scientific research at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich is being throttled by Greater Victoria smoke.

The accuracy of photometric observations is greatly affected by smoke in the atmosphere, Dr. K. O. Wright, observatory director, said Tuesday.

He attributed much of the smoke nuisance to the Hartland Road garbage dump.

NOT POSSIBLE

"The dump is only two or three miles away from us, and when the stars are being studied in the northwest skies, exact readings are virtually impossible to obtain."

Dr. Wright explained such research is important in studying evolution of the stars, and determining their distances.

The amount of starlight reaching the earth is measured by photo-electric equipment and is compared with light readings received from other stars. Color is also very important in such observations.

NOTHING DONE

The observatory director said he had written a protest to civil officials about the smoke nuisance, but nothing was ever done about it.

The Hartland Road dump receives some 5,000 tons of garbage monthly, of which 2,000 tons comes from Saanich and another 2,000 tons from the city. Esquimalt and Oak Bay municipalities use a dump on Millstream Road.

Dr. Gordon Walker, observatory astronomer engaged in photometric observation work, said the smoke nuisance was keeping his department from engaging in some of the most recent advances in a most interesting field.

NEW FIELD

"This is still a relatively new field and some quite exciting discoveries are being made, but we need clear air."

"With the enlargement of the city, it is unavoidable that our research is becoming more and more restricted. The dark, clear skies we used to enjoy a few years ago are gone. It may not get any worse, but I can't see it getting any better either," he said.

FROM VANCOUVER?

Dr. Walker observed that the problem of smoke from Victoria depended on the wind.

"Sometimes I swear we get some of it from Vancouver," he said more than likely the photometric observations will be made in the future from a new observatory being built in the interior. He did not say when the move would be made.

"The air there will be clear, to offset the smoke nuisance and we can get the precise measurements we need without being hindered by smoke. Meanwhile, we are developing compensating equipment to try to offset the smoke nuisance here," he said.

THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST

July 19, 1867

There is certainly a defective drain somewhere in the vicinity of the corner of Bastion and Government Streets. Yesterday the stench was so strong in the Bank of British Columbia Building, Mr. Bishop's chambers, the printing and telegraph office, that the occupants were hardly able to remain at their avocations.

Immediate steps should be taken to abate this long-standing nuisance or an epidemic in the neighbourhood may result.

A correspondent of a New Orleans paper relates that a friend of his has won a wager of £500 by proving that John Wilkes Booth is still alive. He says: "His whereabouts are known to five persons only who know that he is Booth. He is living in obscurity, not far from his native land, and he is perfectly safe as his disguise is so complete that his own brother would not recognise him."

SUMMER SURPRISE

Here's a summer surprise for the little folks. Cut a few frankfurter rolls in half lengthwise. Scoop out the soft centres and toast the rolls lightly. Finely chop two shelled hard-boiled eggs and mix with mayonnaise. Line the inside of the roll "boats" generously with egg mixture and in each place a whole sardine. Lift a crisp inner leaf of romaine at one end of each boat for a sail. And away they go.

Venetian Lace Accents Bride's Gown of Silk

A honeymoon to Harrison Hot Springs followed the double-ring ceremony uniting in marriage Stephanie Isabelle Sturdy and Mr. Murray Blake McAlpine.

Baskets and urns of colorful summer flowers decorated St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for the recent afternoon wedding. Rev. J. Lewis McLean officiated at the ceremony for the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John M. Sturdy, 733 Fernberth Road, and the son of Mr. T. Campbell McAlpine and Mrs. Margaret Taylor, both of Vancouver.

Given in marriage by her father the fair-haired bride was lovely in a slim-line gown of white pure silk. Venetian lace pointed lace defined the Sabrina neckline and tiny cap sleeves and bordered the hemline of the floor-length skirt. A caplet of flowers held a full cathedral veil which mistle over a train of Venetian lace. The bride wore a good luck sixpence in her shoe and for "something old" she had a 75-year-old Dutch coin given by Mrs. T. Sammartino, mother of one of her attendants.

Soft chiffon gowns in aqua-toned springtime floral were worn by matron of honor, Mrs. James Bruce of Vancouver, and maid of honor, Miss Deborah Sturdy, bride's sisters, and bridesmaids, the Misses Joyce McDonald and Teddy Sammartino. They wore aqua rosettes in their hair and carried bouquets of white gladiolus.

Mr. Peter Bousfield was best man and ushering were Mr. Michael Skene, Mr. David Auld and Mr. John Sturdy, bride's brother.

Dr. Walter Sturdy of Vancouver proposed the toast to his niece at a reception which followed in the Union Club.

Norwegian Guests

Mr. and Mrs. E. Lind travelled from their home in Oslo, Norway, to attend the wedding of Miss Valerie Hays and their nephew, Mr. Storm Andersen, bride recently. Also from out-of-town were his sister, Mrs. Gro Fainless and family of Campbell River; the bride's sister, Mrs. Jan Emmott, Edmonton; her uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. D. Dorsey and Mr. and Mrs. J. Mills of Winnipeg.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Am I a dummy or what? A very close friend of mine joined the WACs last year, and she seemed to love it. When she returned for Christmas leave she gave us all a snow job about what a great life she was leading.

Well, last week she came home five months pregnant with no wedding ring. She told everyone that she had become involved with an officer and didn't realize until it was too late that he was married and could not get his freedom. She insists she received an honorable discharge from the WACs.

I say her statement is an insult to the intelligence of a thinking person. That girl must have been discharged dishonorably under the circumstances. Wasn't she? Please answer in print. I want others to see this, too. — DUMMY?

Dear Dummy: What difference does it make to you if the girl was discharged honorably or not? It so happens that your friend didn't receive a dishonorable discharge from the Army. It was simply an official document separating her from the service.

Dear Ann Landers: I plan to be married in the fall. The problem is my parents. They want to remodel the back of our home and make an apartment for us.

They have hinted about this for several months and my fiancé and I have talked it over and neither of us wants it. We had never said no, straight out — until last night. It caused a lot of hard feelings and I am sick about it.

My mother called me a selfish brat. She wants to know why we would rather pay out rent money to a stranger than give it to Dad who could use it.

I love my parents very much and have always gotten along well with them. They have made many sacrifices for me and now I feel like an ungrateful wretch. But, Ann, I really think we would be better off completely on our own. Please tell me if I am right or wrong. I need your thinking. — NEWS-DAY READER

Dear Reader: I believe you and your fiancé are entitled to make this decision without being pressured, and, in my opinion, you made the right one.

Forget about that lousy diet. Excessive acidity can wreck your intestinal system and give you stomach trouble for the rest of your life. If you want to lose weight eat food that has a low calorie count.

Summer Beauty

It is easy to have a good summer complexion, despite the skin coarsening effect of summer. The pores open much wider in the heat so it's essential that they have free movement to open and close without being clogged. Protect from cosmetic pigments, dust, and powder by smoothing on your oil of Olay. This will also protect the complexion against harsh sun rays and will give the skin a milky bloom even on the hottest days.

La Trace-Jarvie Vows

Banff Honeymoon

A hand-made lace handkerchief was carried by Victoria Susan Jarvie as a "something old" talisman when she became the bride of Gordon Henry Earl La Trace in Parkdale Evangelical Free Church.

Her self-made, floor-length gown was of peau de sole styled on empire lines, and fashioned with lace sleeves. A pearl and flower headpiece held her illusion veil which mistle to chapel-length, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses. For luck, she wore a sixpence in her shoe.

Maid of honor Miss Dale Stewart chose a gown of pale green delustrated satin styled on old-fashioned lines and junior bridesmaids, the Misses Gaye and Bridget Wedge, nieces of the bride, wore gowns of pale green lace over silk, styled in similar fashion. The attendants wore matching tulle and ribbon headpieces and carried bouquets of yellow ranunculus and daisies.

Glen Stocks acted as best man, and Stuart Bell and John Lang were ushers.

Ron Icon proposed the toast to the bride at the reception in The Inn.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Jarvie, 343 Glasgow Avenue, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl La Trace of Boston Bar, B.C. Service was conducted by Rev. Percy Willis. The organist, Mrs. C. Dash, played "Because" and "Oh Perfect Love." Mr. Jarvie gave his daughter in marriage.

For travelling on honeymoon to Banff, the new Mrs. La Trace wore a three-piece suit in a burnt-orange shade, which she complemented with a matching hat and beige accessories. On their return the newlyweds will make their home in the Rembrandt Apartments.

They Marry Fast

Impetuous Russians

By ROBERT EVANS

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Though Russian girls have often complained that their menfolk are not romantic enough, when it comes to getting married they appeared to be as impetuous as the most hot-blooded Latins.

A recent survey showed that one-third of divorced couples in Leningrad married less than six months after they met, and this was believed to reflect the situation in most of the country.

Soviet sociologists, concerned about the high divorce rate, have suggested a compulsory engagement period of up to one year. But this was unlikely to be popular with young people who find the speed and ease with which Soviet weddings can be arranged convenient.

A period of engagement similar to that observed in Western countries was once the rule among well-to-do Russians but it dropped out of fashion soon after the 1917 revolution.

The only ring a modern young Russian buys his bride-to-be is the one he gives her at their wedding.

A Russian couple now have no more than a two-week wait from the time they visit the registry office to report their intention to wed until the final official registration of their marriage.

But in some areas of the Soviet Union, especially in the fiercely traditionalist Caucasus, the engagement is still observed as an important ceremony attended by members of both families, often around a huge banqueting table. The young man gives his future bride an engagement ring and a valuable present. Between the Caucasian engagement and the wedding, there is usually a period of up to one year. If the young man changed his mind during that time, he was expected to come to the girl and beg her forgiveness on his knees.

Tighter Control for LSD?

RED DEAR, Alta. (CP)—The Catholic Women's League of Canada has passed a resolution asking that the Federal Government start legislation to prohibit the availability and use of LSD.

At its 20th annual convention here during the weekend, the league said the use of LSD should be carried out only under controlled conditions.

Present federal legislation provides for a $500 fine or a three-month sentence for persons found guilty of trafficking in the drug. No penalties are provided for possession.

In Alberta, the provincial government recently passed legislation providing for a $100-$1,000 fine or a 15-90 day sentence, or both, for possession of LSD.

A trafficking sentence in Alberta brings a minimum one year sentence.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Beckmyer, of 3172 Donald Street, have as their guest for a few days, Mr. Beckmyer's sister, Mrs. Bill Walker of Berryville, Ark. The two had not seen one another for 25 years.

Oak Bay Protest

School Costs Hit

Oak Bay council listened Monday to a long verbal protest against rising school costs. H. L. Campbell, 1085 Deal Street, addressed council and expressed alarm about recent costs involved in the addition of extra staff to School District 61. Reported appointments include the hiring of 20 teachers; appointment of a second psychiatrist; and addition of a social worker to the school board. Mr. Campbell also complained that $800,000 would be spent on architect's fees in a building program even though standard school plans are available from the government. He said council is not powerful enough to resist school costs and should look critically at items not shared by the provincial government. LITTLE COMMENT Reeve Allan Cox said a number of councils had gone to arbitration on school budgets but without success. Council received and filed Mr. Campbell's letter with little comment. Council also heard an appeal from a member of the Victoria Youth Council to sell a magazine in the municipality to raise funds. Charles Barber, spokesman for the council asked the group be allowed to sell the Wine Press magazine in the municipality without a licence. The magazine's purpose, he said, is to give youth a chance to express itself. The licence period would cover the current issue and one more. Council has already granted an earlier request by the Centennial Sing-out group to sell the Moral Re-orientation magazine, Pace, without a licence.

Wealthy Countries Near Pact

Money Flow May Be Boosted

LONDON (CP)—Finance ministers from the 10 wealthiest countries edged close to agreement on a new package deal that could increase the world flow of money at some future date, but failed to bridge some gaps that may require another ministerial session. Canadian Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp told reporters Tuesday the package is to be turned over to deputy ministers for further bargaining in the hope they can complete the deal in time for presentation to the International Monetary Fund conference at Rio de Janeiro next September. However, if the deputies cannot complete the job by themselves, the ministers agreed to come back to London Aug. 26 to finish the task. Sharp said he was "quite sanguine about the success of the meeting" and suggested it may not be necessary to reconvene the ministerial session that included the European Common Market, Britain, North America and Japan.

Twelve Nabbed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI says it arrested 12 North Carolina men today who it alleged conspired to prevent racial integration of schools in two counties by shooting into houses, dynamiting business places and other acts of terrorism. Attorney General Ramsey Clark said the conspiracy was aimed at preventing school officials from operating schools in Rowan and Cabarrus counties "in a racially free manner." The warrant also said the men tried to prevent racial integration by participating in federal anti-poverty and education programs.

The indictment, returned by a federal grand jury in Greensboro July 14, said the conspiracy included burning churches, residences and property used for federally assisted programs; making threatening telephone calls and burning crosses.

As explained by Sharp and other officials, there would be no new international currency, as Canada, the U.S. and Britain had hoped to see, but a form of automatic borrowing power under the administration of the fund's managing director, Pierre Schweller. For example, if Canada or Britain suddenly found their official reserves dwindling, they would be able to draw credit from the new pool and add this credit to their reserves. They could use this additional credit for borrowing rights to pay off foreign debts, using them on the same rate as they use their conventional reserves of gold, American dollars and other currency reserves.

Water Skiers Getting Jump on Site

In the wee small hours of this morning, members of the Victoria Aqua Ski Club will gather at Langford Lake.

Between 3 and 6 a.m. they hope to take their newly-constructed ski jump over to Elk Lake, and will spend the morning putting it on the site for the Canadian National Ski championships to be held at the lake at the end of the month.

If it is ready in time the jump will be christened this evening by a professional group who will be putting on a water ski show off Hamsterley Beach at 7 p.m. Tonight's free show of jumping, barefoot skiing, kite-flying and water tricks will also include a chorus line presenting precision routines.

Kite-flying champions Harvey Leland and Rudy Tuschek will take part in the show, which will be directed by Bert Roosen, who formerly served with the CNE water ski show in Toronto, and Lillian Gourley of Vancouver. B.C. water ski champions are already practising at Shawenigan Lake for the Canadian championships at Elk Lake on July 28, 29 and 30. Next Wednesday and Thursday there will be a preview of the tournament when practice sessions are held at Elk Lake. More than 100 competitors from across Canada will take part in the championships, including Rod Tipton of Cowichan Lake, who will be trying to gain a place on the Canadian national team.

Victoria skiers taking part will be Bill Hughes, who will be entering the senior men's events for the first time, jumpers Clifford Johnson and Cam Dickson, slalom skier Grant Fernwick and 18-year-old Gary Hunge.

Winners of the tournament, a centennial project of the B.C. Water Ski Association and the Victoria Aqua Ski Club, will be named to the Canadian Water Ski team for the world tournament to be held in Quebec next month. Ski shows, including kite-flying and barefoot skiing, will be interspersed with the jumping, slalom and trick skiing competitions.

Plainfield Shootings Renewed

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Shots were fired in Plainfield Tuesday night after a racial truce seemingly had ended six bloody days of shooting and pillaging in northern New Jersey cities. Newark, which counted all but two of the state's 27 dead in the Negro violence, was calm. But sporadic trouble was reported in other communities. In Paterson, police answered calls of scattered rock throwing and firemen chased some false alarms.

BEFORE MIDNIGHT Plainfield, where a white policeman was slain and three persons were critically injured Sunday, was calm until shortly before midnight Tuesday. Then shooting began while authorities sought return of 36 military rifles stolen from a munitions factory. New Brunswick city officials met with leaders of the New Brunswick Negro Union. Negroes protested patrols by armed and helmeted police. After the talk patrols were reduced to normal—a single cruising car—and quiet prevailed.

JERSEY CITY Jersey City, where a Negro hurt in a firebombing died Monday, was quiet. So was Montclair.

Newark, however, remained normal. The warm day brought crowds of shoppers to downtown stores. Only places selling or serving whisky were shuttered. Scars were deep in the crowded slums, where most of the city's 200,000 Negroes live. MASSIVE CLEANUP A massive cleanup was speeded. Rotting garbage and debris were being cleared. Full electricity was restored. Food trucks resumed deliveries and some supermarkets and drug stores were back in business.

Railway Dispute Resolved

OTTAWA (CP)—The last loose ends from the 1966 railway strike were tied up Tuesday by binding decisions on a contract for 21,800 shopcraft workers. As it turned out, the seven shop groups won no more from an arbitration board than other railway employees have settled for in mediation since last fall. The three-man board headed by retired Ontario Appeal Court Justice Wilfrid D. Roach laid down terms almost precisely matching a Nov. 30, 1966, agreement rejected by a vote of the shopcraft membership. Along with almost 100,000 non-operating workers and trainmen, the shopcrafts will enjoy a basic wage increase of 24 per cent over three years. The board has given them only one minor change in fringe benefits—a three-day bereavement leave as necessary should more than one member of an employee's family die in any one-year period. All railway unions involved in the one-week strike late last August and early September entered mediation talks with H. Carl Goldenberg of Montreal after Parliament cut off the strike with legislation.

Playgrounds Swing With Field Trips

Victoria's playground program is in full swing, and today 60 children from two of the city's parks will go on the first of a series of field trips. Today's trip will take children from Beeson Hill and Central Parks to Thetis Lake, and on successive Wednesdays, 10 children from each of the other parks will go there.

On July 24 and Aug. 7, some of the children will be given a tour of Esquimalt Harbor.

On July 27 there will be a swim frolic in the Crystal Garden pool, with competitions for novice swimmers.

Winners of the tournament, a centennial project of the B.C. Water Ski Association and the Victoria Aqua Ski Club, will be named to the Canadian Water Ski team for the world tournament to be held in Quebec next month. Ski shows, including kite-flying and barefoot skiing, will be interspersed with the jumping, slalom and trick skiing competitions.

Victoria skiers taking part will be Bill Hughes, who will be entering the senior men's events for the first time, jumpers Clifford Johnson and Cam Dickson, slalom skier Grant Fernwick and 18-year-old Gary Hunge.

Surveyor Official Casualty

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—America's $65,000,000 Surveyor 4 was officially declared lost on the moon Tuesday to become the second casualty in four attempts to soft-land a spacecraft there before a manned mission.

Flight control engineers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory here ended attempts to contact the spacecraft at 4 a.m. PDT, a move indicating it exploded about two minutes before making its final descent in the Central Bay region of the moon.

Surveyor 4's radio went silent Sunday night two seconds before the 10,000-pound thrust retrorocket braking engine was due to burn out some seven miles above the moon.

Camsell Rounding Ice-Clogged Point

The Coast Guard icebreaker Camsell, enroute to the Western Arctic area, is about to round ice-clogged Point Barrow at the northernmost tip of Alaska.

She left Victoria July 5 for the annual stint to escort DEW line supply vessels through the icy waters.

Usually she averages 60 miles per day, but sometimes makes only five, transport department officials said.

The department said arrangements have been made to facilitate mail delivery to the ship. In past years it has taken a month for a letter to be delivered.

Bilingual Greeting Given Queen Mother

SHEDIAC, N.B. (CP) — This friendly fishing town on Shediac Bay went all out Tuesday to give a royal visitor a warm bilingual welcome.

Queen Mother Elizabeth was welcomed by Mayor Alfred R. Landry who spoke to her in both English and French.

The town is known as the lobster capital of the world: "ONLY REGRET" "Our only regret is that we cannot keep you with us longer," he told the Queen Mother.

She replied, speaking in French, that she was pleased to see "the two great founding races of the homeland united with the original inhabitants and Canadians who have come more recently from other continents marking in a fitting way this historic year."

ROYAL ROUTE

The town's population of 2,200 swelled by tourists, was decorated with red, white and blue bunting. Many houses along the royal route from Moncton and in Shediac were decked out in Union Jacks and Red Ensigns. Some homes flew large red-cardboard lobster claws, still on view following the completion of the town's annual lobster festival.

FRESH LOBSTER

Mayor Landry presented the Queen Mother with fresh lobsters which were to be delivered to the royal yacht.

She left later in the royal yacht Britannia for St. John's, Nfld.

She is to arrive in St. John's Thursday morning to begin a three-day visit to Newfoundland. She leaves St. John's for London by air on Saturday at the conclusion of her 13-day centennial tour of the Atlantic Provinces.

WAVE GOODBYE

At nearby Point du Chene, hundreds of men, women and children in bathing suits and shorts swarmed over sun-drenched beaches to wave goodbye.

Wearing a pale blue and green printed dress with matching flowered hat, she stood in the royal barge waving a long blue silk scarf.

QUICK VISIT

It was the most informal moment of a hurried, three-hour return visit to New Brunswick. She visited Saint John, Fredericton, St. Andrews and Campbellton last week.

Tuesday afternoon, she arrived at Moncton from Summerside, P.E.I., by air, to be greeted by Fisheries Minister Hebert Robichaud, representing the Canadian government, Lt. Gov. J. E. McNeil and New Brunswick Premier Louis J. Robichaud, and other dignitaries.

BY CAR

The party left immediately by car for Moncton's Centennial Park, where the Queen Mother planted a rose tree to commemorate her visit.

About 10,000 people lined the streets of Moncton, a bilingual city of 48,000, roughly half of them French-speaking, to see the Queen Mother pass by in an open car.

Another 5,000 were waiting at Victoria Park where brilliant sunshine pushed temperatures to the high 80s.

Workshop Ending With Haydn

The University of Victoria's first music workshop ends Friday with a public recital of works by Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Brahms and Prokofiev.

Robin Wood, director of the workshop, said Tuesday:

"I am expecting some performances of a remarkably high standard."

Thirty students are enrolled in the workshop, offered by the year-old School of Fine Arts. A CBC television crew spent two days making a documentary film on the workshop and CBC radio plans to broadcast several sessions.

This evening a public recital will include works by C.P.E. Bach, Vivaldi, Lennox, Berkeley, Stravinsky and Mozart.

The recitals begin at 8 p.m. in the Education-Arts Building theatre.

Bus Plunge Kills Pair

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — A tourist bus loaded with 35 persons plunged off a steep, winding road on 14,100-foot Pike's Peak Tuesday, killing two persons and injuring more than 20 others.

The injured were taken to three Colorado Springs hospitals and the air force academy hospital. The two victims were not identified.

The tourist bus ran off the high mountain road at about the place where the annual Pike's Peak hill climb car race is started. The spot is about seven miles above the toll gate at the bottom of the mountain.

60-FOOT DROP

Colorado Springs police said the bus veered off the road and plunged 60 feet down an embankment, overturned and landed on its wheels against a large tree.

Authorities said the group aboard the bus was from Maryland, with many from the Baltimore area. They were on a 30-day tour. The bus had travelled the steep, winding road to the top of Colorado's most famous peak, and careened off the highway on the way down.

Police said most of the persons aboard the bus were elderly. Several were injured seriously, some critically.

Florida Blaze Killed 37

Convicts Blamed for Fire

MILTON, Fla. (UPI) — A coroner's jury Tuesday blamed three convicts — one a former arson suspect — for deliberately starting a prison road camp fire in which 37 prisoners burned to death Sunday night.

All three of the accused prisoners were among the victims of the flash fire at the prison camp at Berrydale, north of here. Only 14 convicts survived and six of these were critically burned.

Concluding two days of investigation, the jury also said it found "no signs of racial violence" on the part of the prisoners and found "no neglect on the part of the guards or prison officials."

The jury read the names of the dead and then concluded

Garden Notes

Weeds Lie Dormant

By M. V. CHESNUT

We have one fair-sized flower bed in our garden which, until this spring, had never been dug over since we moved in more than ten years ago. It was planted up with perennials, mostly the well-behaved, non-aggressive kinds, and as they put on an acceptable show every year, we just let them go their own way without any fussing except staking where necessary, a little thinning, and an annual surface mulch of old manure to maintain the fertility of the soil.

This spring, needing space to try out some new kinds, I moved out the old plants, dug over the bed deeply, and set out the plants I was testing. Then my troubles began — weeds!

Weeds had never been much of a problem in this bed previously, and an occasional hand-pulling was enough to keep it reasonably clean, but this year all kinds of queer weeds are coming up in their thousands in this bed. I find I am spending much of my gardening time on the business end of a hoe handle, but for every weed I hoe off, a dozen more spring up to take its place. Where did these weeds come from? The seeds couldn't have blown in — not in such enormous quantities — in the short time since the bed was dug over. Obviously those seeds must have been lying dormant in the deep soil for all these years, needing only the digging to bring them to the surface where they could germinate.

This phenomenon was very much in evidence following the massive bombings of Second World War. The bombed areas, where deep layers of soil were thrown to the surface by the explosions, became infested immediately with weeds and wildflowers which hadn't been seen in those districts for more than 50 years. It is believed now the seeds had been scattered and buried deeply around the turn of the century when farmlands and pastures had been taken over by encroaching urban development, and they had been resting in a dormant state ever since, needing only light and air to start them into growth.

Weed seeds seem to be able to remain dormant, yet retain their germ life, almost indefinitely, in the lower depths of the soil, and this fact carries a sober note of warning to all home gardeners. If any of your weeds are permitted to go to seed now, the seeds may be buried beyond germinating depth during the routine cultivating, only to turn up and plague you in the years to come when the deep layer of soil is returned to the surface, as happened in my case.

Old-time English gardeners have a saying that covers this situation: "One year's seeding — seven years' weeding!"

Hoeing off the weeds, then, isn't a job which can be put off to some convenient occasion — they MUST be tackled while still young and before they can set seed if the ground is to remain clean. Actually, this work isn't as strenuous as it sounds, especially if you use a small, light Dutch hoe with a really sharp blade. The Dutch hoe, unlike the draw hoe, is strap-shaped, with the blade facing forward, and a simple, effortless scuffling of the soil will slice off the weeds as clean as a whistle.

Dry weather is best for this operation, so the uprooted weeds will wilt and dry in the sun. If rain is in the offing, they should be raked up and either burnt or consigned to the compost heap.

JACK SMITH Discusses Dutch Hippies

Provos Color Life White

Hippies are not uniquely North American. There is a similar movement in Holland. Some of us may think of Holland as a nation of apple-cheeked blonds with wooden shoes and Buster Brown haircuts, ruled over by a benign plump queen. But the Holland of my school geography book, like the rest of that world, is gone.

Holland's young rebels are called provos, according to a story in the Manchester Guardian Weekly, by George Armstrong. They sound a bit older than our hippies, and more mature. They have an intellectual strain that blooms in numerous books and papers. "They should not be classified as irrational rowdies," writes Armstrong. "White is their color, anarchy their banner, hypocrisy their enemy, collective fun their pursuit."

The adoption of the color white has nothing to do with race; it appears to signify the provos' pursuit of purity and love. Like the hippies, the provos have the sympathy of some churchmen. "They are like miniskirts," said an Amsterdam priest. "Not a matter for serious concern but rather a symbol of something rather sweet — the revolt of youth against the bourgeoisie."

"They are innocent," said a Jesuit, "with some intelligent ideas, and their approach to problems is more realistic than that of most youngsters." They are against monarchy, the police and the daily De Telegraf, which views them as scruffy delinquents. They are especially annoyed with the Queen, who wants a 5,200,000-guilder raise.

Anarchists or not, the provos have some charming ideas for reform, such as the white bicycle plan. Under the white bicycle plan, the city would buy 20,000 bicycles. They would be painted white, then scattered about, to be used as free public transit. Anyone seeing a white bicycle standing idle could simply take it, ride it to his destination and leave it for the next person.

To make bicycling safe, of course, automobiles would be banned from the central city.

The plan is the idea of a provo named Laud Schimmelpennick, which is perhaps why it is not named after its author. Schimmelpennick also thought up the white chimney plan, to eliminate air pollution.

The provos are not such rabid anarchists that they want to eliminate the police, but they do propose reforms.

Under the white police plan, policemen would not go about with pistols, clubs and "growing dogs." They would be armed instead with sweets, to give to children. They would carry lighters, to light the smokes of citizens without a match, and they would have sacks of cold chicken, to feed the poor.

The white bicycle plan, the white chimney plan and the white police plan, it may be seen, are marvellously harmonious in concept. Each would contribute to the success of the others.

They should work splendidly here. If cars were banned from the central city, we would be well along the way with our white chimney plan. Banning cars would also release a good many policemen from traffic duty to carry out the white police plan.

What a pleasant city we might have. Imagine everyone riding about on white bicycles, breathing sweet pure air, and on every corner a philanthropic policeman, lighting cigarettes and passing out gumdrops and chicken legs. If that day ever comes, I hope the cops carry floorice. I love it.

The Planned World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

A Time for Babies

ROME (NANA) — Jane Fonda will start her planned parenthood, she confided to me, just as soon as she completes her current Barbarella filming. Sophia Loren will not adopt a child because her doctors have now discovered what went wrong twice before when she lost her unborn babies. Sophia is starring with Vittorio Gassman in The Best House in Naples. Vittorio is all set to marry his long-time girl Juliette Maynelli, the mother of his two-and-a-half-year-old son. Claudia Cardinale, incidentally, was to have played the mother of an illegitimate son in Where To Lavinia? but because of the recent disclosure that her "brother" was in reality her son, the picture was cancelled.

El Cardenas, the Beate of the bullring, is having hair-thinning problems, according to the latest photos. He hasn't been doing too well in the ring either after an operation on his shoulder. Elsa Martinelli, beeline for Robert Mitchum when he arrived in Rome for his Anzio film. Nothing romantic, however, as they are old friends. Elsa is still devoted to her Willy, the photographer. They can't marry because in Italian law, Elsa is still married.

Dino de Laurentis, who knows a sexy male when he sees one, saw Antony Sexton in Grand Prix. Dino will star Sexton in The Bandit. The actor is making good movie-lover time with Jane Fonda in Barbarella. ... De Laurentis is also co-producing Romeo and Juliet, for Paramount. ... After the lull in Italian production in the last two years, pictures are booming here. They are making one on every street corner.

Joe Levine will be making four pictures in Italy in partnership with Mario Cecchi Gori. Jack Elton, who used to produce pictures in Hollywood with Mel Shavelson, is now living in Rome. He is writing the new script for A Talent For Loving, which Laurence Harvey originally sold to the Beatles. It will now be made in Spain minus the long-haired foursome.

Robert Mitchum, lunching with Ava Gardner, suggested they eat outside. Of course they were promptly mobbed by photographers. Robert didn't care, but Ava did — Bob put on his fiercest scowl and the boys, on their motor bikes, roared away.

SYDNEY HARRIS Indulges In-

Antics With Semantics

We were "making a demonstration"; you were "disturbing the peace"; they were "causing a riot." The lower classes have "rheumatism"; the middle classes have "rains in the joints"; the upper classes have "an arthritic syndrome." I am sensitive about my prerogatives, but you have a chip on your shoulder.

When I am thirsting for revenge, I quote the Biblical injunction about "an eye for an eye," when you are thirsting for revenge, I quote the Biblical injunction about the superiority of "turning the other cheek."

In political speeches, an "ad lib" is a remark the speaker has used a dozen times before to relieve the dullness of the prepared text.

A "jealous husband" is a man who hasn't paid any attention to his wife in a half-dozen years, and is ready to attack the first man who wants to.

Their troops "retreat."

While our troops merely "retire to prepared positions," likewise, our troops "advance," while theirs "edge forward."

I am a "decisive" auto driver; you are an "aggressive" driver; he is a "cowboy."

A "treaty" is an ambiguous statement signed by two nations, so written that it is easy for either to declare that the other has "violated" the terms. (A "pact" is much the same thing, except that it is "repudiated" instead of "violated.")

When I am in the majority, my view expresses a "consensus"; when you are in the majority, your view expresses "mass hysteria."

When a certain kind of dirt amuses me, I call it "ribaldry"; when another kind upsets me, I call it "obscenity."

What we refer to as "quiet" is simply the sort of noise we have become accustomed to, like cars in the city, or crickets in the country.

My remark was "irony"; yours was "sarcasm"; his was "downright nastiness."

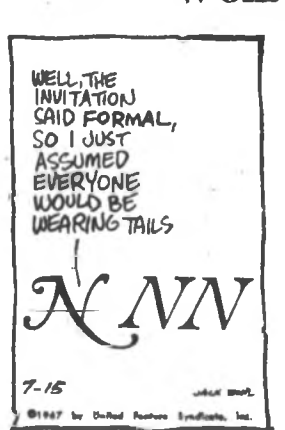

An "acquaintance" is a friend who has just done something that is publicly discreditable (And a "friend" of course, is an acquaintance who has done something publicly creditable).

A "beauty shop" is a place many women leave feeling uglier.

MONTREAL (CP)—A fossil skeleton found eight years ago at Fort Hood, N.S., was identified Tuesday as the oldest reptile known to man—probably 300,000,000 years old. The foot-long, lizard-like specimen was identified by Dr. Robert Carroll of McGill University and Dr. Donald Baird of Princeton. It lived on land 100,000,000 years before dinosaurs arrived.

Defiant Driver Jailed

TORONTO (CP)—When David Campbell was found guilty Tuesday of impaired driving, he was asked to surrender his driver's licence to the court. He said he had come to court by bus and left his licence at home. He was ordered to turn in his licence today. Campbell was then seen driving away from court. Police waited for him at his home and returned him, handcuffed, only three hours after his first appearance. Magistrate Robert Deneper sentenced him to 30 days in jail and fined him $300 or an additional two months. He also prohibited Campbell from driving for a year.

Hees Steps Up Efforts For Tory Leadership

OTTAWA (CP)—George Hees has switched campaign tactics in a final drive to win the Conservative leadership at the Sept. 6-9 party convention in Toronto. The former cabinet minister has brought a corps of professionals into his previously amateur organization. And he's focused his strategy on winning over the 2,500 convention delegates with direct appeals for support.

NEW LOOK

Mr. Hees, 57, and his recently appointed campaign manager, Robert Macaulay, 46, a former Ontario cabinet minister, unveiled the new look at a capital press conference.

U.S. Tax Increase Still Not Decided

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson said Tuesday that he strongly believes a tax increase will be needed this year. He indicated he might ask for more than a 6 per cent boost.

Johnson told a news conference he hoped congress would take up a tax bill next month. The president has proposed a 6 per cent income tax surcharge for individuals and corporations. He told reporters that there might be "some adjustments" in this package but said he had not yet decided about them.

Johnson objected to a day, Johnson indicated that all reporter's suggestion that he of these reasons still were planned to sell a tax increase important.

Errant Pooches Inspire Dog Tickets

Saanich Tuesday night accepted in principle a system of dog tickets, something like parking tickets that instead will be handed out to delinquent pet owners.

Council's lands and planning committee accepted the measure at special meeting called to study a redraft of a new animals bylaw.

Saanich probably is the first area in British Columbia to go into dog ticketing, an approach to pet control that has been exceedingly successful in several United States centres.

WARNING FIRST

On his first offence, the dog owner will be given a warning ticket. If the trouble with his animal persists the second ticket will cost him $1, the third $2, the fourth $5 and the fifth $30.

Scores of Saanich dog owners in the past year have been fined in court for having unlicensed dogs or allowing their animals to run without a leash. The crackdown followed complaints about packs of marauding dogs roaming the municipality.

FEES RISE

The bylaw still has to be given three readings by council before it goes into effect.

Other amendments to the bylaw would see licence fees for male and spayed female dogs increased from the present $4 to $5 a year. The first licence for an unspayed bitch will be waived if the owner shows a veterinarian's certificate stating the animal has been neutered.

FIVE LIMIT

Dogs also would be forbidden on the beaches from June to September, inclusive, and they wouldn't be allowed in parks, even on leashes, during the same months.

Another amendment proposes no more than five dogs be kept on a site of less than one acre. There currently is no restriction on the number of dogs which may be kept by a citizen of Saanich.

The lands and planning committee recommended that the municipal solicitor and planner get together to further define farm animals, particularly the differentiation between saddle and work horses, before deciding what restrictions should be placed on those creatures.

Through '68

Garbage Setup Stays

Saanich residents will have a private contractor collecting their garbage for at least another 17 months, it was indicated this week.

L. S. MacNutt has agreed to carry on his service through 1968 on the same basis as at present—a rate of $11 a year for twice-monthly collections except the summer months, when pickups are weekly.

ONLY TENDER

Saanich earlier this year turned down the only tender for a garbage collection service by private contractor. By that action, council in effect put the municipality into the business.

An informal private meeting was held recently between Mr. MacNutt, several council members and municipal officials. Reeve Curtis said it was made clear municipal engineer Neville Lile "needs a great deal more time" to prepare for garbage collection.

Canadian All Right

OTTAWA (CP)—Government officials said Tuesday George Moore Jr., formerly of Sudbury, is safe and in good spirits in the Canadian embassy at Kinshasa, capital of the Congo.

There had been no positive news of Moore since his single-engine Cessna 208 aircraft was reported shot down by the Congolese national army while flying to Kenya.

The spokesman said Moore will stay in the embassy until granted an exit visa.

peaceful demonstration against the restaurant's refusal to serve some of their number. Hoodlums turned the demonstration into violence, the court was told.

SUITS, TIES

Rick Kitaeff, 23, and Pierre Couprey, 24, hippies dressed in "straight" clothing—suits, ties, shoes and socks, told Mr. Justice Gregory the word "hippie" and the image of hippies as always being dirty were created by the press.

Mr. Kitaeff said long hair and unconventional dress adopted by hippies were expressions of personal character.

In court to listen were a number of persons dressed in the ultra-casual style of hippie-dom, and a man in a court jester's outfit.

There were laughs throughout the hearing.

Asked to define hippies, Mr. Kitaeff said: "It's a people movement, by people asserting their common humanity, and a return to a tribal sense of community. It's an attempt to create a new society, a substitute for a society that is not entirely useful. Hippies are not trying to disrupt anything. They are expressing themselves and making changes within themselves."

Asked why he was wearing "straight" clothes, instead of hippie attire, he said: "I'm dressed this way today out of respect for the court."

Mr. Kitaeff, the court was told, has a BA from McGill University and an MA in creative writing from the University of B.C. He was given a $2,500 Quebec scholarship to write a book.

Mr. Couprey has a BA from McGill, taught English at UBC and received a $3,000 Quebec grant to study poetry in Paris. The court will announce its decision today.

HULL STRETCH FERRY IDEA

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

B.C. is considering chopping its mainland to Vancouver Island ferries in half and adding a centre section to increase their length and capacity.

The idea came from Monty Aldous, general manager of the B.C. Ferry Authority, and for the moment he isn't keen on going into details.

But Premier Bennett let the cat out of the bag in an interview Tuesday. (See also Page 10.)

He said consideration is being given to lengthening the nine white Queen ferries on the Island run, adding if this was done it would provide an equivalent of "two or three extra ships."

JUST AN IDEA

"At this stage it's only an idea," Mr. Bennett said. "It will take a lot of study by engineers and marine architects to see if it can be done and how much it will cost."

Mr. Aldous said preliminary studies have been done and he is awaiting permission to launch a thorough study of cost and engineering.

MORE CARS

Based on the meagre information available at this stage, it's likely the ships — now 335 or 342 feet long depending on time of construction — would be increased by approximately 45 to 50 feet to boost their carrying capacity close to 300.

RAMP WORK

Mr. Bennett also announced the successful trial of two ships fitted with similar fittings for the remaining seven ships on the Island run before the summer of 1968.

The ramps, installed at a cost of $150,000 per ship, increase their capacity from 115 to 147 cars. They were tried after a cost of building new ships from the heavily travelled service.

COST RISES

The Queen of Burnaby, built in 1964, cost nearly $3,900,000, and a similar ship last November brought in a low bid of $3,100,000.

Mr. Bennett said the ramps will be installed in the seven ferries as they enter winter refit.

Shipbuilding experts indicated lengthening of the queens would likely change their operating characteristics. It should cut down the present operating speed and may make the handling of the ships in docking more difficult.

DONE BEFORE

"Certainly lengthening of ships in this manner is done all the time," an official said, "but whether it's the best method of increasing ferry capacity remains to be seen."

Mr. Bennett announced a few days ago that ferry traffic in the first 30 days of July was more than 10 per cent up from the same period last year.

U.K. Defence Plan

Far East Force Home by 70s

LONDON (CP)—A new streamlined shape for the fighting forces of a Britain looking toward union with Europe was outlined Tuesday by Defence Secretary Denis Healey.

The plan envisages British withdrawal in the mid-1970s from Singapore and Malaysian bases although forces will be maintained and possibly even increased, in the Communist-harassed colony of Hong Kong.

The cuts, more drastic than had been anticipated, would reduce armed service manpower by 75,000 and civilian manpower by 80,000 by the mid-1970s. Present strength of the army, navy and air force is 437,300. Civilian strength is 378,000.

Healey's white paper marked the end of a global defence review undertaken by Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government when it came to power in October, 1964.

SHARP DEBATE

Debate was sharp during the ensuing period of chronic economic difficulty not only between Labor and the Conservative opposition but within the Labor party itself.

The term "East of Suez"—resurrected by Wilson from Rudyard Kipling—became an evocative and nostalgic synonym for Britain's traditional world role.

"East of Suez—goodbye to all that" is the headline in one London newspaper, summing up the defence findings.

The new plan is designed to keep defence costs down to the target of £2,000,000,000 ($6,000,000,000) a year from now on. The budget for 1970-71 is expected to be about £1,800,000,000 and by the mid-1970s about £1,800,000,000, "a reduction of some £300,000,000 on last year's forecast."

The white paper said the contribution to NATO would become increasingly important as Britain develops closer political and economic ties with Europe.

MARKET BID NOTED

The new policy took account of Britain's current attempt to join the European Common Market as well as changing NATO strategy, the Middle East crisis and changes in Southeast Asia following the end of Indonesia's confrontation policy against Malaysia.

The United States, engaged in its long war in Vietnam, would regret Britain's plans for departure from Southeast Asia, some sources said. But Healey, questioned on this point by a reporter, said it was unlikely the Vietnam fighting would still be going on in the mid-1970s. Anyway, a weak Britain—overextended in defence—would not be in the interests of the U.S.

The U.S. has tended to take for granted Britain's contributions in the area, Healey added. Of the timing of withdrawal.

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The Indian government will go ahead with legislation for the compulsory sterilization of all men who have three or more children, health ministry officials said Tuesday.

The officials said that chief ministers of all the states except two gave full support to the proposal for compulsory sterilization as part of the government's family planning program.

A bill incorporating the proposal will be circulated to get the views of the public before going to parliament, they added.

Tycoons' Bottle Floats Far

Old Folks at Home If Irish Luck Holds

DUBLIN (AP)—Six months ago, a party of millionaires vacationing on a yacht in the Bahamas threw a bottle overboard and vowed they would build an old folks home whenever the bottle touched land.

The luck of the Irish carried the bottle across the Atlantic and landed it at Bantry in County Cork, where 68-year-old John McCarthy picked it up.

McCarthy wrote to Henry Gar-

ber of Dublin, one of the millionaires, whose name was inside the bottle.

"We felt that not enough was being done for them," Garber said.

So the 20 rich men agreed to pool £20,000 to build a home whenever their bottle washed ashore.

Garber said he has written the others and is waiting for them to make good on their pledges.

Brazilian Midair Crash

PORTALEZA, Brazil (AP)—

A Brazilian air force jet collided with a light private plane near this northeast Brazilian city Tuesday, killing former president Humberto Castello Branco and four others.

The army marshal who ruled Brazil with an iron hand for nearly three years, was in the private plane with five others. The co-pilot survived and the jet, a T-33, trainer, managed to return to the Portaleza air base safely.

The collision occurred over a village near here as 66-year-old Castello Branco was flying back from a visit to the farm of novelist Raulino de Queiroz, about 120 miles from Portaleza.

sight, clipped the tail of the smaller Cessna with a wing-tip.

The only Cessna survivor was co-pilot Emilio Celso Tinoco. His father, Celso, the pilot, died in hospital. Killed besides the former president were his brother, Candido Castello Branco, Maj. Francisco Nepomuceno and writer Albo Frota, the only woman aboard.

The government decreed five days of mourning.

Castello Branco was army chief when he helped lead an uprising of civilians and soldiers dissatisfied with the leftist policies of President Joao Goulart in April, 1964. Goulart fled to Uruguay and Congress named Castello Branco interim president.

By decree, Castello Branco decided Congress and not the people would elect his successor. Congress chose his war minister, Arthur da Costa e Silva, and he took over March 15 last.

Blackened Slopes Blaze Aftermath

By GEORGE INGLE

A few charred embers and a few wisps of smoke were visible late Tuesday from the Trans-Canada Highway nine miles north of Victoria, in the aftermath of the Skirt Mountain forest fire which killed two men and scorched 400 acres.

By late afternoon, B.C. forestry officials reported the fire, which also threatened dwellings and businesses, was "pretty well contained."

To the motorists on the highway, smouldering embers lined the east side of the highway near the Old Island Highway junction, and a fairly substantial pall of smoke wafted gently up a draw leading northeast off the highway.

The curious spectators, were gone, however, and it was "business as usual" on the Island's main traffic route.

GUARD FINISHED

The 15 bulldozers and ground firefighters had, by evening, completed four miles of fire guard, encircling the main blaze. The 180-man crew was back on shift work but bulldozer operators continued from dawn to dusk.

For the next two days, burning-off operations will occupy the crews, as the area between the guard and the main fire is ignited to widen the fireguard and thoroughly contain the fire.

ONE COFFER

Air operations Tuesday were confined to one helicopter, which is acting as the eyes for the firefighters and the six tank trucks. The aerial water bombers were back "in the barn," waiting for the next alarm.

The two Martin Mars bombers from Flying Tankers Inc. returned to Sprout Lake Monday and the Flying Firemen's Cessna, sister ship to the ill-starred craft in which the two Sidney men died Sunday, was on standby.

DANGER OVER

Residents of the Florence Lake area, under notice to prepare to evacuate late Sunday, were relaxing with the danger to the area definitely over.

Businesses on the highway, especially a service station near the junction of Goldstream and the highway, breathed easier. The service station had been threatened Sunday and Monday as shifting winds caused concern.

The fire was reported at

Johnson Beats Dayan

TEL AVIV (UPI)—A public opinion poll that asked 1,500 Israelis who they admired most among men anywhere in the world came up with a surprising winner: U.S. President Johnson.

He was well ahead of war-winning Israeli Defence Minister Gen. Moshe Dayan and army chief Gen. Yitzhak Rabin.

of the lower Fraser is undeniably high at this time and continues to increase in some areas," the report said.

A public hearing on the report will be held Aug. 21 to 24. At present about 20 municipal permits have been issued by the provincial government for discharge of sewage into the Fraser.

Virtually all the permits are for untreated sewage.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The

U.S. Senate unanimously approved Tuesday a three-year, $700,000,000 air pollution bill that would empower the government to bring industry to a standstill anywhere in the U.S. any time foul air threatens public health.

The 88-0 vote sent the measure to the House. No House hearings have been set.

Aside from its emergency provisions, the bill would attack pollution that affects an estimated 7,000 urban communities. The worst pollution is over the eastern seaboard and southern California.

The measure would empower the secretary of health, education and welfare to seek court injunctions halting motor vehicle traffic, closing factories and power plants, and stopping operation of any other pollution source deemed an imminent danger to the public health.

Teachers Cudgel Walker's Motion

Ovans

Banning teachers from sitting on school boards would make them second-class citizens, says the general secretary of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

Charles Ovans made the declaration Tuesday in a statement issued from BCTF headquarters in Vancouver.

He was commenting on a move by Courtenay school trustees Brian Walker toward barring teachers from becoming trustees.

Teachers now cannot be elected to school boards in districts where they teach, but there is nothing to stop them seeking election in adjacent districts.

Mr. Walker failed to get a second for his resolution which would have gone to the B.C. School Trustees' Association for endorsement.

Mr. Ovans commented that the idea of forbidding teacher-trustees "demonstrates a certain lack of faith in the democratic process."

Mr. Ovans also took issue with a statement by the secretary-treasurer of the Courtenay board, who said the federation was urging teachers to run for school trustees.

Mr. Walker said earlier, "I feel when the chips are down a teacher would have difficulty knowing where his duty lay."

Another Courtenay trustee, Doug Sankey, said teachers might not be able to serve on committees like finance and personnel.

Secretary treasurer Roy Mills mentioned the apparent urging from the BCTF, which has now been denied.

"The BCTF has in the past upheld and defended the right and duty of teachers to share in the responsibility of citizenship in a democracy, with the right to run for public office, including the office of school trustee in districts where they do not teach," he said.

Nanaimo Earns Retarded Home

NANAIMO—A group home for foster children is the aim of a pioneer program in social welfare, getting its start in this city.

The foster home will be designed specifically for its purpose.

It is designed for eight children, and there are seven children now.

Nanaimo Lions Club has accumulated much in 18 months.

The fund-raising included white elephant auction, fashion shows and many other events, one event a month for 15 months.

Ken Medland, chairman of the committee which has been responsible, was the chairman of the service club at the time the project was chosen.

He said the club collected suggestions for a project over three months, and this one was picked out of the 10 submitted.

The money collected will more than cover their 10 per cent share of the project.

The provincial government has agreed to contribute one third the cost as an outright grant, and the federal government will finance the remaining 56 per cent.

As the total cost for the house is $71,454, the Lions Club share will be less than the amount collected.

Mr. Medland said the balance would go to supplying furniture and equipment.

Eritz Schultze designed the house, acting both in the capacity of professional architect and as a member of the club.

Wheatcroft Construction was low bidder on the project.

Land has been leased for 30 years from the city, and is to be part of Exhibition Park.

Inmate Admits Fraud Charge

LADYSMITH—An inmate of B.C. Penitentiary, John F. Green, 30, Vancouver, pleaded guilty in magistrate's court Tuesday to fraud in connection with a 13-foot house trailer.

He was sentenced to one year to run concurrently with a three-year term he was given earlier this year for similar offenses at Vancouver and Saanich.

Police said he obtained the trailer and resold it. He was picked up at Vancouver.

Roger Craig, 18, Victoria, pleaded guilty to theft and escaping lawful custody. Both offences occurred July 9.

Police said he had stolen two racing car tires valued at more than $50 at Ladysmith, and was arrested at Duncan.

He tried to escape from the Duncan RCMP Station but was recaptured.

On the theft count he was fined $250 and received a one-year suspended sentence with a peace bond amounting to $1,000.

Another one-year suspended sentence with a $500 peace bond was imposed on him for his attempt to escape custody.

Still Problem

NANAIMO—Ald. Jack Parker reported to city council that he has been conducting his own survey of traffic problems.

He said since his statement of three weeks ago about the Pearson Bridge nothing has changed, except possibly the traffic problems are worse.

His studies disclosed tourist confusion of traffic patterns in the vicinity of the coal monument.

He said that tourists who finally find their way out of the maze continue out of the city, giving up hope of shopping in Nanaimo.

Investigation and renovation "of all our downtown signage" is needed.

He suggested speed signs be posted for southbound traffic from the bridge, and overhead street signs be erected.

Gordon McKay, speaking for the police parking and traffic committee, said these problems were already being investigated.

Some action on street signs has been instituted.

He agreed traffic from the bridge is bad, and suggested earlier proposals for alternate routes be investigated.

Only One Firm Clearing Logs

LAKE COWICHAN—Crown Zellerbach is working fast to get its deadheads out of the lake, but it is the only firm to respond to a demand from citizens.

"We have a lot of logs in the lake and we feel we should do something about it," said Melvin Lehman, Vancouver, chief scaler supervisor of timber department of Crown Zellerbach, Tuesday.

pulp, and these will be taken by train to the pulp mill at Elk Falls.

Mr. Lehman stated "This plan is working very well for us."

"Because the logs are full of water they have to be dumped in a dry land mill. It would be too difficult for us to take the logs to our mill at Ladysmith, as they would have to be dumped back into the water until they are used."

"Naturally, they would sink and we would have a new problem to contend with."

Mr. Lehman said the company has staked an additional 150,000 board feet of logs within the five and one-half miles of area between the weir at Lake Cowichan and Goat Island.

He said "We hope all our logs will have been removed within a month."

With regard to the flagging program, Mr. Lehman said some of the logs have been in the lake for as long as 20 years.

"No one will ever be able to identify them as belonging to any one company," he said.

"However, we are flagging them too; we feel it is the only thing to do."

When tourists have questions, the girl with the answers is Frances Duncan in the Link and Pin logging museum in Sayward. Frances is granddaughter of pioneers at Sayward. The museum started as a hobby, but now is filled with relics, and Frances delights in recounting their histories to visitors.

Burglaries Bring Long Jail Term

NANAIMO—Harold Clyde Pearce, 25, 236 Needham, was sentenced to two years less a day on each of two counts of breaking and entering to be served concurrently.

He pleaded guilty to breaking and entry of Nanaimo Service Centre and South End Service Centre on July 4, and was remanded for sentence until Tuesday.

The fact that he had obtained steady employment for a relatively long period, and stayed out of trouble, weighed heavily in his favor.

Magistrate Eric Winch had stated "you're down to a case where it's an habitual situation."

However, the presentence report indicated a relatively light sentence, while opportunity for training could still rehabilitate.

His record had indicated 14 convictions including theft and robbery and other convictions in jail.

Mr. Winch told Ford to warn his friends they could be liable to fines of $150 for supplying an interdicted person with liquor.

He also stated that if Mr. Ford so much as smelled of alcohol, he would be placed on the witness stand, sworn in, and asked who had supplied the liquor.

City Rejects Bid By School Board

NANAIMO — The school board's request for tax abatement was denied by city council.

The board requested taxes on St. Anne's Convent be dropped for the period during which the building will be used for classes, until the Wellington Junior High School is completed.

The reasoning was that school buildings are tax exempt normally, and the convent would be used as such.

Council stated it was not in its authority to waive taxes on land included in the city's assessment area, and the request could not be considered.

A request by Nanaimo Fish and Game Association was approved by city council.

The group is sponsoring a safe boating clinic at Westwood Lake, July 24 and 25.

It asked the regulations against motorized vessels be waived, as the clinic's instruction would include these as well.

The clinic, in conjunction with other organizations concerned about needless water fatalities, will be conducted free of charge.

Alderman Ken Alexander moved the request be granted on the basis "of public interest and the nature of the event."

A young flier claims

Parker

Nanaimo airport could be "next to none" if it were to provide a few comforts.

James Peerless, 17, Lady-smith, both a flier and student of Chemainus High School sent a letter to city council.

He stated the lack of benches or lounges and or either a snack bar or restaurant, is driving away fliers.

He suggested the installation of the conveniences, coupled with the excellence of the runway and site of the airport could make it "the most widely acclaimed airport."

Otherwise, he felt, "it would fold up before long."

Council received the letter, and filed it.

Alderman Jack Parker suggested the city send Mr. Peerless a letter of thanks, commending him for his interest, in view of his youth.

A five-acre parcel of land has been turned over to Civic Properties and Recreation commission.

The subject of consideration for years, Parcel X is situated between Bowen Park and Millstone River, near Glenview Street.

The city, in granting the land, maintained some rights, such as the extension of Glenview Street, in the event an alternate traffic route is developed, to aid Pearson Bridge traffic.

A resolution to the Union of B.C. Municipalities was passed by city council.

It recommends crown land within a municipality become an asset of the municipality.

Hees Steps Up Efforts For Tory Leadership

OTTAWA (CP). George Hees "completely different" type of campaign aimed at small in a final drive to win the Conservative leadership at the Sept. 6-9 party convention in Toronto.

The former cabinet minister has brought a corps of professionals into his previously amateur organization. And he's focused his strategy on winning delegates over the 2,500 convention delegates with direct appeals for support.

NEW LOOK

Mr. Hees, 57, and his recently appointed campaign manager, Robert Macaulay, 46, a former Ontario cabinet minister, unveiled the new look at a capital press conference.

Mr. Hees explained Tuesday the summer brought an end to political meetings in July and into the convention with open August. Now he is running a minds, he said.

U.S. Tax Increase Still Not Decided

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson said Tuesday that he strongly believes a tax increase will be needed this year. He indicated he might ask for more than a 6 per cent boost.

Johnson told a news conference he hoped congress would take up a tax bill next month.

NOT DECIDED

The president has proposed a 6 per cent income tax surcharge for individuals and corporations. He told reporters that there might be "some adjustments" in this package but said he had not yet decided about them.

Businessmen, who received an unexpected investment tax break earlier this year, may be asked to bear a bigger share of the income tax hike than they originally anticipated.

Johnson objected to a reporter's suggestion that he planned to sell a tax increase "primarily" to pay the mounting costs of the war in Vietnam.

"It's not 'primarily' anything," he said. "But I believe we're going to need the revenue."

FIVE REASONS

In his state of the union message in January, the president gave five main reasons why a tax increase was needed: paying for the war, paying for "great society" programs at home, preventing inflation, holding down interest rates and reducing the size of the federal budget deficit.

At his news conference Tuesday, Johnson indicated that all of these reasons still were important.

U.K. Defence Plan

Far East Force Home by 70s

LONDON (CP)—A new streamlined shape for the fighting forces of a Britain looking toward union with Europe was outlined Tuesday by Defence Secretary Denis Healey.

The plan envisages British withdrawal in the mid-1970s from Singapore and Malaysia bases, although forces will be maintained and possibly even increased in the Communist-ruled colony of Hong Kong.

The cuts, more drastic than had been anticipated, would reduce armed service manpower by 75,000 and civilian manpower by 80,000 by the mid-1970s. Present strength of the army, navy and air force is 417,360. Civilian strength is 375,000.

Healey's white paper marked the end of a global defence review undertaken by Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government when it came to power in October, 1964.

SHARP DEBATE
Debate was sharp during the ensuing period of chronic economic difficulty not only between Labor and the Conservative opposition but within the Labor party itself.

The term "East of Suez"—resurrected by Wilson from Rudyard Kipling—became an evocative and nostalgic synonym for Britain's traditional world role.

"East of Suez—goodbye to all that" is the headline in one London newspaper, summing up the defence findings.

The new plan is designed to keep defence costs down to the target of £2,000,000,000 ($8,000,000,000) a year from now on. The budget for 1970-71 is expected to be about £1,900,000,000 and by the mid-1970s about £1,800,000,000, "a reduction of some £200,000,000 on last year's forecast."

The white paper said the contribution to NATO would become increasingly important as Britain develops closer political and economic ties with Europe.

MARKET BID NOTED
The new policy took account of Britain's current attempt to join the European Common Market as well as changing NATO strategy, the Middle East crisis and changes in Southeast Asia following the end of Indonesia's confrontation policy against Malaysia.

The United States, engaged in its long war in Vietnam, would regret Britain's plans for departure from Southeast Asia, some sources said. But Healey, questioned on this point by a reporter, said it was unlikely the Vietnam fighting would still be going on in the mid-1970s. Anyway, a weak Britain—over-extended in defence—would not be in the interests of the U.S.

The U.S. has tended to take for granted Britain's contributions in the area, Healey added. Of the timing of withdrawal.

STRETCHED FERRIES MEANS MORE CARS

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

B.C. is considering chopping its mainland to Vancouver Island ferries in half and adding a centre section to increase their length and capacity.

The idea came from Monty Aldous, general manager of the E.C. Ferry Authority, and for the moment he isn't keen on going into details.

But Premier Bennett let the cat out of the bag in an interview Tuesday. (See also Page 10.)

He said consideration is being given to lengthening the nine white Queen ferries on the island run, adding if this was done it would provide an equivalent of "two or three extra ships."

JUST AN IDEA

"At this stage it's only an idea," Mr. Bennett said. "It will take a lot of study by engineers and marine architects to see if it can be done and how much it will cost."

Mr. Aldous said preliminary studies have been done and he is awaiting permission to launch a thorough study of cost and engineering.

MORE CARS

Based on the meagre information available at this stage, it's likely the ships—now 335 or 342 feet long depending on time of construction—would be increased by approximately 45 to 50 feet to boost their carrying capacity close to 200.

RAMPS WORK

Mr. Bennett also announced the successful trial of two ships fitted with "green-deck" ramps will mean similar fittings for the remaining seven ships on the island run before the summer of 1968.

The ramps, installed at a cost of $150,000 per ship, increase their capacity from 115 to 147 cars. They were tried after after cost of building new ships from the heavily travelled service soared.

COST RISES

The Queen of Burnaby, built in 1964, cost nearly $3,900,000, and a similar ship last November brought in a low bid of $5,100,000.

Mr. Bennett said the ramps will be installed in the seven ferries as they enter winter refit.

Shipbuilding experts indicated lengthening of the queens would likely change their operating characteristics. It should cut down the present operating speed and may make the handling of the ships in docking more difficult.

DONE BEFORE

"Certainly lengthening of ships in this manner is done all the time," an official said, "but whether it's the best method of increasing ferry capacity remains to be seen."

Mr. Bennett announced a few days ago that ferry traffic in the first 10 days of July was more than 10 per cent up from the same period last year.

Riot Guns Delivered

WASHINGTON (LAT)—Most of the weapons confiscated from New Jersey race rioters were bought from mail order gun houses, U.S. Senate investigator Eugene Ossason said Tuesday. (See also Page 27.)

"In practically every riot, we've found mail order guns," he said. "Dealers aren't going to sell a .38 to a kid, so the kid turns to the mail order houses."

Admiral Sees How It's Done

Despite story above, Premier Bennett is not showing distinguished visitor where B.C. ferry will be saved in half to increase car capacity. Model of ferry he launched was simply topic of general discussion with Rear Admiral Seizaburo Hoshino, commander of Japanese training squadron here for naval assembly. —(Jim Ryan)

Brazilian Midair Crash

'Iron Hand' Killed

Castello Branco

FORTALEZA, Brazil (AP)—A Brazilian air force jet collided with a light private plane near this northeast Brazilian city Tuesday, killing former president Humberto Castello Branco and four others.

The army marshal who ruled Brazil with an iron hand for nearly three years, was in the private plane with five others. The co-pilot survived and the jet, a T-33 trainer, managed to return to the Fortaleza air base safely.

The collision occurred over a village near here as 66-year-old Castello Branco was flying back from a visit to the farm of novelist Raquel de Queiroz, about 120 miles from Fortaleza.

The trainer, on a routine flight, clipped the tail of the smaller Cessna with a wingtip.

The only Cessna survivor was co-pilot Emilio Celso Tinoco. His father, Celso, the pilot, died in hospital. Killed besides the former president were his brother, Candido Castello Branco, Maj. Francisco Nepomuceno and writer Alba Frolas, the only woman aboard.

The government decreed five days of mourning.

Castello Branco was army chief when he helped lead an uprising of civilians and soldiers dissatisfied with the leftist policies of President Joao Goulart in April, 1964. Goulart fled to Uruguay and Congress named Castello Branco interim president.

By decree, Castello Branco decided Congress and not the people would elect his successor. Congress chose his war minister, Arthur da Costa e Silva, and he took over March 15 last.

Blackened Slopes Blaze Aftermath

By GEORGE INGLIS

A few charred embers and vagrant wisps of smoke were visible late Tuesday from the Trans-Canada Highway nine miles north of Victoria, in the aftermath of the Skirt Mountain forest fire which killed two men and scorched 400 acres.

By late afternoon, B.C. forestry officials reported the fire, which also threatened dwellings and businesses, was "pretty well contained."

To the motorists on the highway, smouldering embers lined the east side of the highway near the Old Island Highway junction, and a fairly substantial pall of smoke wafted gently up a draw leading northeast off the highway.

The curious spectators were gone, however, and it was "business as usual" on the island's main traffic route.

GUARD FINISHED
The 15 bulldozers and ground firefighters had by evening completed four miles of fire guard, encircling the main blaze. The 160-man crew was back on shift work but bulldozer operators continued from dawn to dusk.

For the next two days, burning-off operations will occupy the crews, as the area between the guard and the main fire is ignited to widen the fireguard and thoroughly contain the fire.

ONE COPTER

Air operations Tuesday were confined to one helicopter, which is acting as the eyes for the firefighters and the six tank trucks. The aerial water bombers were back "in the barn," waiting for the next alarm.

The two Martin Mars bombers from Flying Tankers Inc. returned to Sproat Lake Monday and the Flying Firemen's Canoe, sister ship to the ill-starred craft in which the two Sidney men died Sunday, was on standby.

DANGER OVER

Residents of the Florence Lake area, under notice to prepare to evacuate late Sunday, were relaxing with the danger to the area definitely over.

Businesses on the highway, especially a service station near the junction of Goldstream and the highway, breathed easier. The service station had been threatened Sunday and Monday as shifting winds caused concern.

The fire was reported at

Johnson Beats Dayan

TEL AVIV (UPI)—A public opinion poll that asked 1,000 Israelis who they admired most among men anywhere in the world came up with a surprising winner: U.S. President Johnson.

He was well ahead of war-winning Israeli Defence Minister Gen. Moshe Dayan and army chief Gen. Yitzhak Rabin.

Fraser River

Sewage Law To Stiffen

A provincial government report released Tuesday recommended immediate action by Fraser Valley municipalities and industries to halt increasing pollution of the Fraser River.

The report, prepared for the Pollution Control Board, called for immediate planning of new sewage treatment facilities. It urged municipalities to pulverize and chlorinate all raw sewage before it is dumped into the river.

If this is not done, the report said, existing permits that allow dumping of raw sewage should not be renewed.

C. A. Goldie, the water resources engineer who prepared the report, said the Fraser River's capacity is not sufficient to accept crude wastes from future domestic and industrial expansion without becoming impaired by pollution.

"Bacterial contamination of the lower Fraser is undeniably high at this time and continues to increase in some areas," the report said.

A public hearing on the report will be held Aug. 21 to 24. At present about 20 municipal permits have been issued by the provincial government for discharge of sewage into the Fraser.

Virtually all the permits are for untreated sewage.

Air Pollution Muscle Wins U.S. Support

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Senate unanimously approved Tuesday a three-year, $700,000,000 air pollution bill that would empower the government to bring industry to a standstill anywhere in the U.S. any time foul air threatens public health.

The 88-0 vote sent the measure to the House. No House hearings have been set. Aside from its emergency provisions, the bill would attack pollution that affects an estimated 7,000 urban communities. The worst pollution is over the eastern seaboard and southern California.

The measure would empower the secretary of health, education and welfare to seek court injunctions halting motor vehicle traffic, closing factories and power plants, and stopping operation of any other pollution source deemed an imminent danger to the public health.
